Advance Guard of Rotary In City To-day

Most Successful Convention Yet Manager Expects

Philip Lovejoy, Here With Joseph Jackson, Gets Down to Business

President Pascall Arrives To-morrow

Sir Charles Mander and Dr. Luis Machado of Cuba Also Expected

"We look for one of the most successful conventions in Rotary history," said Philip Lovejoy, Chicago, assistant secretary and general manager of the Rotary International Convention, immediately following his arrival by the 12.45 o'clock boat to-day from Seattle. The preliminary sessions of the convention open here this week.

Mr. Lovejoy is the advance guard of the great Rotary caravan which will commence to invade the city to-morrow, led by Sydney W. Pascall, London, England, president of Rotary International, and Sir Charles A. Mander, director and trustee of Rotary Foundation.

"I am delighted to be in Victoria, a city of which I have heard so much about, but am seeing for the first time," declared Mr. Lovejoy. "I notice you have Rotary weather here. The assembly could not meet under more favorable auspices."

Mr. Lovejoy is accompanied to-day by Joseph W. Jackson, the "cowboy" of Rotary from Madison, Wis. He was stationed at Camp Lewis in the State of Washington at the time he was the remount service of the U.S. Army and he knows Victoria pretty well.

"It's sure good to be back here," said Mr. Jackson as he begged for time to register.

DOLLAR LOSES ON EXCHANGE

New York, June 7.—Canadian and British currencies continued their downward trend on the local foreign exchange market to-day. The dollar closed 13-16 cent lower at 86 1/2 cents.

The pound sterling ended the day 2 1/2 cents lower at $3.66 1/2 for cables.

Rescue In Yangtze Made By Gunboat

Chinese Attacking Grounded British Steamer Carrying Passengers and Gold is Shelled by U.S. Armed Craft

Shanghai, China, June 7.—The Exchange Telegraph reported to-day that the United States gunboat Oahu had fired on Chinese soldiers who were attacking two British steamers.

They were attacking the river boats Wanli and Kiawo, the dispatch said. The Oahu's gunners drove off the attack with many casualties.

The Wanli was carrying $10,000 in cash when it ran aground yesterday evening in the upper Yangtze River, forty miles below the town of Chungking.

The Kiawo came alongside and started taking off the money, cargo and passengers when a large number of Chinese soldiers, whom the Exchange Telegraph described as men of the regular army, appeared and demanded the money.

When the demand was refused there was gunfire. The master of the Kiawo signalled for assistance and the United States gunboat Oahu approached and stood by. The firing ceased, but the Oahu remained throughout the night.

This morning firing was resumed by the Chinese soldiers. The Oahu, the dispatch said, replied with heavy guns and machine guns, silencing the raiders and causing many casualties in their ranks.

Later in the day the Kiawo moved off the river with the money, passengers and cargo of the Wanli.

The disabled steamer remained hard aground, with the Oahu still standing by.

EXTEND TIME ON CITY BONDS

Council Authorizes Printing of Bonds in City's $200,000 Refunding Issue

Alderman Litchfield Reminds Council of His Stand on Cheap Money Market

When the City Council in session yesterday evening authorized Comptroller D. A. Macdonald to proceed with the printing of bonds for delivery to subscribers of the city's $200,000 refunding issue, Alderman Litchfield remarked that the city could have secured cheaper money on the London market.

"I see your friend Mr. Jones across the Bay was successful in floating a loan in London," smilingly taunted Alderman Litchfield, glancing across the floor in the direction of Alderman Brown and reminding the aldermanic board that several months ago he (Alderman Litchfield) had suggested that the city take advantage of the money which is available in London at favorable exchange quotations and low rate of interest.

His friendly ally at the expense of the chairman of the finance committee was greeted with laughter.

Alderman Litchfield has consistently argued that his plan would have been better than the one adopted by the city.

UNTIL ISSUE SUBSCRIBED

It was decided at yesterday evening's council meeting, in view of the support that the bonds were receiving in the city, that the sale be extended until such time as the entire issue has been subscribed.

The total subscribed up to yesterday, starting the second week of the bond sale over the counter, amounted to $128,400.

It is anticipated that the $150,000 mark will have been reached by the end of the present week.

SASKATCHEWAN WELCOMES RAIN

Regina, June 7.—Southern Saskatchewan wheat lands are soaked.

Week-end rains continued into Monday, bringing the heaviest precipitation in years to the drought area.

Exports from the north gave similar indications of welcome moisture.

Near Arcola a miniature cyclone swept the district, causing considerable damage.

VETERANS GO TO WASHINGTON

Jobless Men Flocking to U.S. Capital to Join Bonus Demonstration

New York, June 7.—Reinforcements marched, hooked rides and motored to-day toward Washington to lend their presence to the appeal for a $2,000,000,000 bonus for war veterans.

At Washington it was parade day, with a touch of red offering a prospect of fireworks. Police there announced a commencing plot to "commence" the parade with violence, had been discovered.

Plans had been laid for organization of 100 men into a compact fighting unit to combat the police, said the police announcement of the plot.

To frustrate that possibility, Pennsylvania Avenue was roped off so 4,000 or more bonus marchers from all parts of the country, might parade peacefully.

To-day's parade was by no means intended to be the climax of the veterans' efforts to stir Congress to action in their behalf. Thousands of others were only barely started from their distant homes to join the "army."

FOUND AT MONTREAL

Montreal, June 7.—The pound sterling was quoted at $4.38 on the local foreign exchange market at 3 p.m. to-day.

Washington Feeds Veterans' Army

The problem of caring for the throng of jobless war veterans in the United States capital has steadily increased as each day brought more groups from near or far parts of the republic. When the picture above was taken some of the men were being fed in a vacant building while city police kept order. The men are demonstrating to induce Congress to vote immediate bonus payments totaling $2,000,000,000.

Eleven Dead And Twelve Missing After Fire In Apartments

Firemen Search Ruins of Building in Cleveland While Thirty Persons Are Treated for Burns or Injuries; Disaster Caused by Explosion

Cleveland, June 7.—Eleven persons were known to have lost their lives and twelve were missing following an explosion and fire which swept a downtown apartment building here to-day. Four bodies had been brought out of the ruins and firemen had sighted others.

Assistant Chief James Mimmo's estimate of twelve was based on a check-up of the number of residents with those accounted for. It would take hours, firemen said, to make a complete search of the debris.

About thirty more were burned or injured, while the rest of the nearly 200 residents of the apartments were saved in dramatic escapes.

INVESTIGATION STARTED

The search began five hours after an explosion had shaken the six-story building in the heart of the downtown area. Flames which engulfed the upper five stories, occupied by the Wellington Apartments, had prevented rescue workers from entering previously.

Among those who greeted the Minister of Railways at the railway station here, was J. Fife Smith, a director of the Canadian National Railways. Representatives of the Board of Trade, Harbor Board, Canadian Pacific Railway and a generous sprinkling of politicians were on hand.

CROAT LEADER IS MURDERED

Zagreb, Yugoslavia, June 7.—Mile Budak, a Croatian Nationalist leader, was murdered at noon to-day in the main street of Zagreb by a gang of men, who beat him with clubs and slashed him with knives.

Although a house-to-house canvass is being conducted it is possible that many people who should be on the Provincial Voters' List will be missed. The Victoria Liberal Association has opened an office at 1229 Government Street where voters may register from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily. Anyone who has not yet registered and is eligible is asked to call at the L.A. rooms.

BOYS BUY OWN PLANE TO FLY

Bob Proctor and Frank Reilly Worked in Pulp Mill to Achieve Ambition

Now Making Test Flights in Two-seater at Gordon Head Airfield

In order to satisfy their ambition to fly, two local boys, Bob Proctor and Frank Reilly, worked hard for five years in a Coast pulp mill and then, with their hard-earned savings, purchased a plane in which they intend to pass their flying tests.

The plane, a two-seater Fairchild, purchased by money made by these two enterprising boys while working at Port Alice on the west coast of Vancouver Island, was shipped here from eastern Canada and is now at the Gordon Head airfield, where on Sunday it made its initial test flight.

The plane is almost new, having but thirty-three flying hours to its credit. PLANE CHARTERED

The boy owners of the K.R. 21 Fairchild plane have chartered it to Capt. T. E. Snelgrove, pilot at the city-leased airfield, who is giving them lessons in flying.

Since the time they left school the two youths have been obsessed with a desire to fly and they have worked hard and long with that object constantly in mind. They came to Victoria last Christmas to spend a vacation and when they expressed their hopes to flying enthusiasts here they were prevailed upon to take their flying course here. This they decided to do and opened negotiations for the purchase of a plane.

HAVE FIRST TEST

They have had their first test flight and give promise of becoming expert fliers within a very short time. This is the first time in the history of aviation here that youths keen to fly have purchased their own plane in which to complete their flying tests.

Proctor lives at 360 Linden Avenue being a native son, while Reilly is a former Vancouver boy.

LIBERAL M.P. FATAALLY HURT

Thomas McMillan, Member for South Huron, Ont., Crushed by Horse; Dies

Stratford, Ont., June 7.—Thomas McMillan, Liberal M.P. for South Huron, Ontario, died in a hospital here to-day from injuries received last yesterday when he was crushed by a horse in the stable at his home.

Mr. McMillan was a farmer, a contributor to agricultural publications and a lecturer at Farmers' Institutes throughout Ontario and the Dominion.

He was defeated in the general election of 1917 and 1921, but entered the House of Commons in 1925 and was re-elected in 1926 and 1930.

He was born March 18, 1864 in Hulletts Township, Huron County, Ont., and was educated at the public schools. He married in 1891. There are one son and one daughter.

EARTHQUAKE IN PORTUGAL

Lisbon, June 7.—A severe earthquake shock occurred at Benavente, sixty miles from here, to-day. No one was reported injured.

NEW PRINCIPAL FOR COLLEGE

Presbyterian General Assembly Hears Report Recommending Changes

London, Ont., June 7.—Rev. Frank Baird of Picton, N.S., presented to the Presbyterian General Assembly here to-day the report of a committee which had reviewed evidence of "unsatisfactory conditions" in Knox College, Toronto.

It was decided to hear the report at an open session.

The committee recommended Rev. Dr. Thomas Eakin be relieved of his chair as Old Testament professor. It recommended also that Prof. E. Lloyd Morrow be relieved of his chair of systematic theology and that the Assembly appoint an acting principal.

Another recommendation would reorganize the Assembly establishing the exact powers of the different college boards.

The report ended a two-year inquiry into Knox College affairs which dated back to complaints made by a group of divinity students. At the 1931 Assembly a commission was established. It reported last week that "unsatisfactory conditions" existed in the seminary. The commission then was augmented and instructed to review its evidence before Principal Eakin and Prof. Morrow and make recommendations.

Martin Says He Took Part In Eighteen Offences And Colley Agrees To Fifteen

VISITS COAST CITIES OF B.C.

Ottawa, June 7.—While no official announcement was made, it is understood the cabinet to-day passed an order-in-council extending the date of expiration of the five-cents-a-bushel bonus on export wheat from June 15 to June 30. It has already been intimated that the extension would be made.

WHEAT BONUS IS EXTENDED

Ottawa, June 7.—While no official announcement was made, it is understood the cabinet to-day passed an order-in-council extending the date of expiration of the five-cents-a-bushel bonus on export wheat from June 15 to June 30. It has already been intimated that the extension would be made.

MacDonald Again At Desk in London

Canadian Press

London, June 7.—Premier MacDonald returned to Downing Street to-day after a period of convalescence at his home in Lossiemouth, Scotland, following an operation on one of his eyes.

"I feel very fit physically," he said, "although my eye still bothers me a little."

New Zealand Premier Cancels Ottawa Trip

Pressing Domestic Problems Also Expected to Keep Coates, Public Works Minister, at Home During Empire Conference

Wellington, N.Z., June 7.—Premier G. W. Forbes to-day announced that on account of the pressure of domestic problems he would be unable to attend the Imperial Economic Conference in July and August at Ottawa, and this evening it was understood that Mr. Hon. J. G. Coates, former Premier and now Minister of Public Works, would remain in New Zealand.

This left only Messrs. Deneau, M. Stew. art, Finance Minister, remaining of the ministers selected to attend the Ottawa conference. It was not made known immediately whether other ministers would be selected to replace the Prime Minister and Mr. Coates.

Groups of advisers recently were appointed to accompany the ministers.

The Prime Minister's decision not to go to Ottawa came as a complete surprise. Until late this morning it had not even been suggested he would not attend the conference. For some time, however, it had been prophesied that Coates would not make the journey at this critical stage of domestic affairs.

"SERIOUS AND URGENT"

The Prime Minister announced to-day that in consequence of the serious and urgent problems confronting New Zealand, which had recently increased in gravity and complexity, he had come to the conclusion his place in the existing circumstances must be in New Zealand.

The labor opposition in parliament recently strongly attacked the arrangement whereby the leading ministers would all leave for Dominion for some months, while unemployment, financial and labor problems continued to be critical, and also denounced the composition of the delegation as affording no representation of the laboring classes.

FRUIT PLANT SANCTIONED

Holsum Packing Company Granted Permit to Build Factory at Lake Hill

Plant to be Modeled Along Lines of Salem Units; Capacity to be Doubled

Sanction was given by the City Council yesterday evening to the proposal of the Holsum Packing Company Limited to proceed with the erection of a dehydrating plant at Lake Hill.

The city's approval was needed to permit the company to proceed with its plans, as the city the owner of the property, which formerly was utilized as a pumping station. The building will be of galvanized iron construction with a new fireproof as possible the outside coat being in the neighborhood of $7,000.

The dehydrating plant will be modeled after plants in existence in Salem Ore, and will be heated by oil burning stoves. The first unit will have a capacity of from eight to ten tons of loganberries daily. It is the intention of the company to double the capacity of the plant at a future date. Three Ssanch fruitgrowing organizations, the Keating Co-operative Exchange, the Ssanch Fruitgrowing Association and the Gordon Head Fruitgrowing Association, have each guaranteed the company a supply of sixty tons of fruit daily during the season.

SIX KILLED IN CRASH

Collingswood, N.J., June 7.—(Associated Press)—Six persons were killed and another seriously injured early to-day when an ambulance speeding to a hospital with an injured three-year-old girl collided at a street intersection here with an automobile.

Plains Crop Outlook Improved By Rains

Optimistic Reports Received by Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa; Slight Price Gain at Winnipeg

Ottawa, June 7.—The general crop situation in the prairie provinces shows further improvement, with nearly every district having received precipitation ranging from light showers to very heavy rains during the last week.

The weekly telegraphic report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, issued this afternoon, says the eastern and central drought areas of Saskatchewan were benefited greatly by the additional precipitation, and the central and southern districts of Alberta received a generous addition to the already abundant supply.

PRICE GAIN RECORDED

Winnipeg, June 7.—Substantial buying for export gave further stimulus to a wheat market weakened by week-end bear raids. Encouraged by further demands from European countries for Canadian wheat, prices climbed slightly, higher levels to close 1/4 to 3/4 higher for the day.

July closed 1/4 higher at 56 1/2 cents a bushel; October 3/4 to 1/4 higher at 58 1/2, and December 1/4 higher at 59 1/2. Exports trade worked overnight, and during the morning was estimated at between 700,000 and 1,000,000 bushels.

The market was fairly active and reasonably steady throughout. At the high levels advances of 1/4 to 1 cent were recorded. A slight decline was registered in the closing minutes, symptomatic with weakness at Chicago.

General rains throughout the Canadian crop areas proved a bearish factor, and held the bull forces somewhat in check. Rains were fairly general in Saskatchewan, particularly in the southern drought area.

Cash wheat and coarse grains held unchanged to a fraction easier in listless trade.

Elect Summary Trial on All Charges Before Magistrate Jay To-day

Eugene V. Colley and Robert John Martin, the two James Bay youths arrested last Thursday following an intense manhunt, pleaded guilty to fifteen and eighteen charges respectively in the City Police Court this morning, after electing summary trial before Magistrate Jay. Charges against Colley, first preferred in the juvenile court, were transferred by the magistrate to the regular police court. The cases were adjourned at 1 o'clock after hearings of two and one-half hours. The court resumed hearing at 3.30 o'clock this afternoon with W. A. Brethour, counsel for the defence, presenting character evidence and questioning witnesses who gave testimony this morning.

Court Crowded As Prisoners Plead

Colley and Martin were charged separately. Each pleaded guilty to armed robbery in five cases, assault with attempt to rob in one case and theft of automobiles in ten cases as well as breaking and entering the shop of E. B. Wilson, gunsmith, 1314 Government Street, and stealing weapons therefrom.

SAY THEY SHOT AT CALDWELL

Both entered guilty pleas to the charge of shooting at a person, Detective Caldwell, with intent to prevent their arrest.

Martin also pleaded guilty to unlawfully pointing a gun at three persons, George Whitfield, Alex. Grey and Graham Chambers.

Preceding adjournment, Constable Thomas Stevenson, who was stationed in Peasey's Drug Store, Foul Bay, when the Martin and Colley entered on Wednesday evening, gave an account of the attempted robbery and the shooting which led to the wounding of Colley. Corporal Alexander Mustart, of the Provincial Police, described the arrest of the pair at Kokash. Detective Henry Jarvis sketched the findings of the Colt automatic where the pair abandoned their stolen car near the Chinese Cemetery and Detective Inspector John McElean gave an outline of the activities of the youths from the time they stole the weapons from Wilson's store until they attempted to make their way up-land and were arrested.

CROWDED COURTROOM

Before a crowded courtroom Colley was brought in for hearing, after his case had been transferred from the juvenile court.

One by one the charges against Colley were read. They were:

On May 31 he had committed armed robbery against Fong Chau, Chinese, and against James Smith.

On June 1, armed with an automatic he had robbed Charles W. Pettman and Joyce Morrow.

On May 31 he had assaulted with intent to rob Robert W. Wainwright.

On June 1 he had assaulted with intent to rob Albert Peasey.

Calgary Counts Its Losses From Floods

Repairs to Piling and Dikes Along Bow and Elbow Rivers Will Cost $62,000

Calgary, June 7.—Surveying damage of the recent flood and heavy rains, Calgary city officials to-day were discovering more trouble than they had anticipated.

Exposed damage to water mains and the breaking of the gravity pipe line feeding the city reservoir, danger of a slide on the slope of North Hill brought warning to three families they should vacate their homes. Survey of damage done to diking and piling along the Bow and Elbow Rivers, which necessitated an expenditure of $125,000 since the 1928 floods, indicated replacement costs would go at least to half that figure.

Impaired by torrential rains, cracks developed on the North Hill slope, and to avoid loss of life Commissioner A. G. Graves advised three families to move out of their houses. It was pointed out at the same time the city disclaimed responsibility.

POOL DENIES WHEAT DUMPED

Winnipeg, June 7.—The following statement was given to the Canadian Press to-day by John L. McFarland, general manager of the Canadian Wheat Pool, when questioned about reports circulated in New York and London that he was resigning and the Pool Wheat was being liquidated.

"There is absolutely no truth in these reports. Pool Wheat is not being liquidated, and there is no intention of Pool Wheat being liquidated. Canadian wheat is being sold abroad at world price, and will continue being sold only as it is required by importing countries."

"The world wheat situation has definitely improved in the last few months, and prices should readily respond to any improvement in world financial conditions."

FIRES SWEEP ONTARIO-QUEBEC FORESTS

Heavy Clouds of Smoke Hang Over Great Areas To-day

Of Five New Outbreaks in Woods of Northern Ontario, Two Believed Results of Lightning and Incendiarism

SETTLERS' HOMES IN QUEBEC DESTROYED

Canadian Press
Toronto, June 7.—Heavy clouds of smoke hung over northern Ontario and Quebec today as fires steadily ate their way into rich northern forests. Five new outbreaks, two of them believed due to lightning and incendiarism, were reported in the Port Arthur district, while other fires were raging in the regions of Rouyn in northern Quebec and the Chicoutimi and Lake St. John district of Quebec.

Mining camps at the Don Rouyn mine, three miles from the town of Rouyn, were destroyed late yesterday when a stiff wind stirred up fires which had been smoldering for more than a week. The flames were gradually eating their way toward the town of Noranda, but a large volunteer brigade as well as the regular contingent of fire fighters were combating the outbreaks.

Fires were reported spreading in the Chicoutimi and Lake St. John region of Quebec, with several settlers' homes in the northern section of the province falling to the flames. Valuable timber concessions twenty miles from the town of Port Alfred on the Saguenay River were endangered when fires under control for some time, broke out anew.

THEATRES SAFEST

Ottawa, June 7.—Motion picture theatres in Canada now rank the highest of any class of property in respect to fire control, according to the report of J. C. Smith, Dominion fire commissioner, submitted to the annual conference of Canadian fire marshals which opened here today.

During the last year the loss from film fires in Canadian theatres had been less than $4,000, and constituted a record for any country in the world, Mr. Smith stated.

CONFERENCE DUBLIN

Thomas in High Spirits After Meeting Valera on Differences To-day

No Statement Issued by Irish President; to Confer Friday in London

Canadian Press
Dublin, Irish Free State, June 7.—With satisfaction at their visit being expressed on all sides, Mr. J. H. Thomas, Dominion Secretary, and Lord Halsbury, War Secretary in the British cabinet, arrived here today and at noon opened a conference with Eamon de Valera, President of the Council of the Irish Free State.

After an hour's talk with President de Valera and with Hon. James Geoghegan, Free State Minister of Justice, the two British cabinet ministers departed with smiling countenances. Apparently they were pleased with the results of the meeting, the main object of which was presumably to arrange for a meeting between Mr. de Valera and Premier MacDonald in London at the end of the week.

Mr. de Valera, however, declined to say anything, pointing out any statement would necessarily come from Mr. de Valera, host of the conference.

The meeting was of high importance. The hope was that some sort of agreement could be effected whereby the Free State and Great Britain could enter into negotiations at the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa, called to start July 21.

There was a touch of drama in the scene in the Free State government building as the visitors were ushered in and the state figure of President de Valera faced the genial, smiling Mr. Thomas, with whom he had many cross-channel clashes. The two shook hands cordially. Lord Halsbury, former Lord High Chancellor, was introduced immediately and the business of the conference began.

President de Valera will go to London on Friday to resume the conference there.

Mr. Thomas, in his statement in the Commons yesterday in regard to the meeting, carefully omitted any reference to the subjects to be discussed. He said that there was no ground for believing it would be discussed. It was obvious to any close observer the oath bill could not be left out of the picture. The oath bill, as far as Britain is concerned, is at the root of the renewed difficulties between Britain and the Free State.

President Valera's attitude is regarded by the Anglo-Irish press, and it was the reason for the British Government's decision not to negotiate with the Free State preparatory to the Ottawa conference. That is the view of the Anglo-Irish press, and it was the reason for the British Government's decision not to negotiate with the Free State preparatory to the Ottawa conference.

There can be no solution of the difficulties between the two countries in connection with the Imperial Economic Conference, without some reference to the oath bill. STREET SAFETY GATES SAVE CHILDREN

Street safety gates, similar to those used at railroad crossings, are being operated by schoolboy traffic patrol officers at bus crossings around an Evanston, Ill. school. If the gates prove successful, it is planned to use policemen, previously stationed at the corners, for other duty. One of the gates is shown in operation above.

CONCILIATION MANUFACTURERS HERRIOT'S PLAN

New Premier Tells French Chamber He is Ready to Negotiate at Lausanne

International Collaboration in Economic and Political Fields His Purpose

Canadian Press
Paris, June 7.—Premier Edouard Herriot, in his first declaration before Parliament to-day, pledged his government to reciprocity in war debt and reparations negotiations at the conference at Lausanne starting June 16.

The entire left, with the exception of the communists, and a goodly portion of the centre groups applauded the Premier's cabinet speech, and his predecessor, Andre Tardieu of the moderate right, openly accepted some passages.

Premier Herriot opened his Lausanne remarks with the statement his government would take a determined stand against violation of treaties and contracts between nations.

He left the way open, however, for negotiations with the statement that he would be ready to discuss at Lausanne "any project which on a basis of reciprocity seems likely to lead to greater world stability and peaceful relations."

The administration of the Liberal left, he said, would base all its policies on a desire for international collaboration in both the economic and political spheres.

He pledged his government to immediate economies in the War Department as an aid to the cause of disarmament.

The Premier read his own declaration in the chamber, while Rene Renoult, Minister of Justice, appeared in the Senate. The declaration dealt chiefly with economic issues, both internal and foreign.

The Premier gave hope to foreign countries relative to tariff quotas and protection measures established by previous administrations. These measures would be reconciled, he said, "with a larger regime of exchanges and international agreements."

The Premier said there was an urgent necessity to found peace on the world, and affirmed his faith in the League of Nations.

INFLATION OF PRICES URGED

U.B.C. Professor of Economics Suggests Course to End Depression

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 7.—A policy of price inflation as the only practical solution for the depression was advocated by Dr. W. A. Cuthbert, professor of economics at the University of British Columbia, speaking at a luncheon of the advertising and sales bureau of Board of Trade in the Hotel Vancouver yesterday. Dr. Cuthbert dealt with "the price situation."

A fall in prices always accompanied a depression, asserted the speaker, who explained this was brought about by curtailment of credit by the banks, which do so because production got out of proportion to consumption, making business uncertain. This made it necessary to make up credit with cash, to obtain which more goods must be sold by reducing the prices.

"However, price reductions do not always increase sales," he continued, "for the psychology of the public is a variable factor, and it is difficult to determine, and if people think they will be able to buy cheaper at a later period, they will hold their money."

MANY OVERBOUGHT
In many cases the public had overbought, he declared, because in good times prices rose and advance buying resulted. Business men mistook this for real demand and over-production followed, he continued.

"Prices are no longer in relation to supply and demand, because optional consumption is now a large part of total consumption," stated Dr. Cuthbert. "During the nineteenth century buying was mainly concerned with necessities, such as food and clothing, whereas during the twentieth century much of the buying consists of things with which people can do without, if necessary. Thus, the present depression, and any that may occur in the future, will be worse than those of last century, for there is greater scope for curtailment of buying."

Dr. Cuthbert suggested that the government should encourage the production of necessities, and that the public should be encouraged to buy necessities, and that the government should encourage the production of necessities, and that the public should be encouraged to buy necessities.

B.C. Lumbermen Look For Wider Markets

Hope to Ship More to Britain and Orient, With U.S. Market Being Closed to Them June 21

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 7.—The new scale of United States import lumber duties will go into effect June 21, according to advice received to-day at the office of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association here from Washington.

Development of lumber markets in the United Kingdom and Japan and China will be the aim of British Columbia lumbermen in order to make up for the loss of trade with the United States caused by increased import taxes in that country.

This was the statement of Bruce M. Farris, president of the British Columbia Lumber Manufacturers' Association, to-day following a two-hour session with members of the industry.

"The United States market is completely lost to us under the new tariff rates," Mr. Farris declared. "We will extend every effort, however, to make up for the loss by further extension of our export markets."

China particularly offers opportunities for the sale of the lower grades previously absorbed by the Americans, Mr. Farris continued. It is this class of output which provides the most difficult marketing problem.

Subsidies, similar to those granted by the United States Government on the Pacific, would be sought for the development of the Chinese market, Mr. Farris stated. Representations would be made to the Dominion Government to obtain these.

The meeting appointed a "ways and means" committee to consider the whole marketing problem. The following were named: J. G. Robson, J. A. Humbird, H. J. Mackin, H. R. McMillan, Ross Pendleton, J. H. McDonald, T. Gadd, S. G. Smith, J. B. McDonald, C. Grimmett and T. H. Wilkinson, secretary of the association.

Domestic markets were not discussed at the meeting, Mr. Farris stated, but they would receive the attention of the committee. The question of United States lumber entering eastern Canadian markets also would be reviewed.

New Zealand and Australian markets now were completely supplied by Canadian exporters, Mr. Farris said.

NEGOTIATING NEW FARES

Vancouver Council Discusses Possibility of Reduction With B.C.E.R. Head

If No Agreement Reached By Aldermen and President, Arbitration Expected

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 7.—Continuation of the present seven-cent street car fare schedule was proposed to-day by President W. G. Murrin of the British Columbia Electric Railway, when officials of that company met members of the Vancouver council to resume negotiations to fix a fare. The present agreement expired last November 8, but has been continued until July 8.

The council president informed the aldermen that although he would not agree to a basic fare reduction, he was prepared to "experiment a little" with the non-school night ticket.

He was prepared to grant an increase from seventeen to eighteen non-rush hour tickets for $1, and introduce a child's fare for a revision of about 10 per cent. He also hinted at some transfer arrangements which he was considering.

ABRITRATION POSSIBILITY
Asked by Alderman John Bennett if the company would grant eighteen tickets for $1, good on all lines, and give ten instead of eight school tickets for twenty-five cents, Mr. Murrin replied that he would not throw out any hope for such a revision.

"It seems," commented Alderman J. McRae, "from Mr. Murrin's attitude, that the fare either remains as is or we will have to go to the arbitration board."

Discussion was deferred finally to allow the aldermen an opportunity to consider the situation in the light of the council's decision.

WEEKLY TICKETS
Mr. Murrin was asked by Alderman H. J. de Graaf if he would consider introduction of a weekly ticket in Vancouver. The president replied such tickets were now being issued in Victoria, but that they constituted an experiment so far.

Young Holdups Enter Guilty Pleas

On May 29 he stole automobiles belonging to Mrs. D. S. Spencer, H. A. Davis Ltd., and J. B. Acland.

On May 31 he stole cars belonging to H. S. Fringle and Archibald Gordon.

On May 30 he broke and entered the shop of E. B. Wilson, 1314 Government Street.

The other charge laid against him was that "with intent to prevent the lawful apprehension of persons, Robert J. Martin and Eugene V. Colley, he did unlawfully shoot at a person, Walter Caldwell."

As each charge was read he voiced his plea of "guilty" sometimes smiling as he made reply and other times appearing to try and recollect certain incidents.

FELT WEAK
After the sixth charge, Colley asked permission to sit down, stating that his lawyer, he was feeling weak.

Colley was led from the dock as Martin was brought in. The latter entered similar guilty pleas to the individual charges, admitting his guilt in a subdued voice with his head bowed.

At the conclusion of the fifteen charges, which has also been read against Colley, Martin admitted having pointed a gun at George Whitfield, Alex. Gray, Graham Chambers on three separate occasions.

As the last charge against Martin was presented, Colley was brought back to the box.

The mothers of the two boys, seated in front of the crowd, suppressed tears as their sons pleaded.

"STICK 'EM UP!"
Constable Stevenson took the witness stand and told of incidents of Wednesday evening when the pair attempted to rob Peasey's drug store.

With Constable Mackenzie he had been stationed in the store when the pair rushed in. Colley had said: "Stick 'em up. This is a holdup."

Martin shouted to Colley to "get the dough." Colley went for the till and shot the storekeeper.

Colley slumped forward and the pair started shooting. Martin attempting to hit the light.

Corporal Maclean testified he was at Cowichan when he received information three boys in a car were nearing there. He proceeded down the highway with Constable Service and found the three stopped for gas at a store at Victoria. He asked them their names. Two had replied "Durant."

He searched Martin, who said he had no gun and added he would "come clean." He then placed Colley and Martin under arrest and asked for their guns. The pair informed him they were in a pocket in the car. Searching the automobile he had found two automatics.

HAD SOME MONEY
Colley had in his possession a full box of 3 Western automatic cartridges. He took them to Duncan and searched them again finding sixty-one cents in coppers, $13 in bills and $7 in silver.

The provincial officers brought them to the Victoria and handed them over to the city police.

Detective Jarvis told of finding a third automatic twenty feet behind the abandoned car when Martin and Colley on Wednesday evening near the Chinese Cemetery.

Detective-inspector McCallan traced the activities of the pair from the evening of May 30, stating that at 11 o'clock that night they had entered the store of E. B. Wilson by climbing over roofs and passing through a rear door in a pocket in the car. Searching the automobile they gained access to a courtyard behind Wilson's shop and saved

CONVENTION PLANS DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

Canadian Press

New Westminster, June 7.—The 1932

convention of the Royal Order of Moose for the Pacific northwest will be held at this city. A telegram was received by the city council yesterday evening from

V. W. Callender, secretary of the New Westminster lodge, stating the convention at Wenatchee, Wash., had accepted the invitation here. About 2,000

delegates and visitors are expected.

DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

New Westminster, June 7.—Mayor A.

Wells Gray, M.P.P., and Aldermen A. J.

Allison, Robert Fenton and John Peck

were appointed delegates to the convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, which will be held at Nelson,

June 23 to 28 inclusive. Mayor Gray, who is secretary of the union, said a large convention was anticipated in view of the municipal unemployment relief problems.

BRANDON CONTEST

Mr. Cater, head of Brandon's civic government for thirteen years, entered as a last-minute candidate in the city constituency. He was defeated last fall when he sought a fourteenth term

as mayor. A follower of Mr. Campbell, he is opposed by D. E. Clement,

Liberal-Progressive; George Dinakle,

Conservative; and Harry Spafford,

Labour.

Meat-Col. Webb, head of the Winnipeg council six times during the last eight years and whose majority in the last civic election several months ago was greater than ever before, decided against running for the Legislature in Winnipeg. Instead he listed himself as Conservative candidate in the rural constituency of Assiniboia, just a short distance from the city limits. Winnipeg, which sent Mr. Webb to the mayor's chair every time he sought election, and by increasing majorities, is to make a choice between twenty-nine candidates, ten of whom will be elected. But the mayor is gambling elsewhere.

Opposed to Mr. Webb in Assiniboia

are George Smith, government candidate, and John McLean, Labour.

It is the first bid for a seat in the Legislature by all three mayors.

Miami, Fla., June 7.—Henry W.

Fisher, seventy-seven, former foreign newspaper correspondent and author of

internationally known works, yesterday

beat off a negro elevator attendant at his death from the top floor of a hotel here.

He left notes to newspapers, the coroner and friends, stating he had "come to the end of my tether," and that he wished to be buried in a pauper's grave

without any pomp.

Fisher, in all health for several years, was a native of Alsace-Lorraine

and traced his ancestry to the Polish

King Sobieski and to Count de Simeon, author of the Code Napoleon and Napoleon's Minister of Justice.

Resident in various European capitals

during his long career as a journalist,

Fisher was author of a number of books, notably private lives of the Kaiser and his consort and secret history of the court of Berlin.

Associated Press

Vancouver, June 7.—"When physical progress outpaces social wisdom we are due for a crash," said John Nelson of Montreal, former Vancouver newspaper man, during a luncheon address to the Canadian Club of Vancouver yesterday.

"Science," said Mr. Nelson, "has brought the world closer together.

Thrown nations suddenly into intimate contact with one another, but has failed to give us a formula by which we can live together.

"Instead," he said, "science has placed impartially in our hands instruments of destruction so terrible we tremble to think of another conflict."

Mr. Nelson was speaking particularly of middle Europe, which he visited last year, but in the course of his speech he touched all parts of the world.

"No people live unto themselves," continued the speaker, "there never again will be a declaration of independence. The word has passed from the vocabulary of politics and of economics. Interdependence is the master word of the world over to-day.

Every travelling Canadian finds himself unconsciously speculating in the light of that fact, on what effect the things he sees in the Caucasus and along the Mediterranean and in Shanghai and away up in Harbin will affect these are going to have on his land. If he is wise he will not fall into the error of measuring other people by the yardstick he employs at home."

MUCH REST

In China and Japan, in the Polish

Corridor, Czechoslovakia, Roumania,

Austria, Hungary, Germany, Jugo-slavia, in enigmatic Russia—60 per cent of the peoples of the world were in a state of unrest, he said. Anything that affected that proportion of the world's population must effect the other 40 per cent. November, 1918, had not brought peace. Nations merely had turned from arms to tariffs, to economic boycott.

Mr. Nelson took his hearers through

Germany into stricken Austria, over the Alps into Italy, where Mussolini

decries "books, baths and babies."

He did not know how the first two of Il Duce's injunctions were being obeyed, but his observations led him to conclude the third was being enthusiastically respected.

He spoke of the spiritual inspiration received at Oberammergau, where

Bavarian peasants demonstrate their faith in the famous Passion Play. On a spur of the mountains stands a great crucifix.

"One somehow feels," he concluded,

"that not in Moscow, not in Nanking, not in this or that kind of government but in what the cross typifies still lies the solution of human ills and the hope of a baffled and almost desperate world."

PUBLIC FINANCES

FINANCE MINISTER JONES INTIMATES
Expenditure of the British Columbia government is to be reduced immediately by $1,000,000 below the amount in the budget approved by the Legislature at its recent spring session. It is now apparent that, in the well-intentioned desire to claim a "balanced budget," prospective government income in relation to expenditures was too generously estimated.

The present reduction is also in line with banking advice. The British Columbia Financial Times, which voices the opinion of the financial interests, points out that during the last winter the position of the province on floating debt was very uncomfortable, as treasury bills, discounted at the bank, were in the neighborhood of $16,000,000. This overdraft was reduced in the spring by sale of a $5,000,000 issue, followed by the recent sale in London of a $7,500,000 issue. By these two transactions $12,500,000 of the bank overdraft was funded in bond issues. The advice is given that there should be no more flotations for ordinary and capital account. Mr. Jones is apparently in sympathy with this. Hence the intimation of further curtailment of expenditure.

Uncertainties of exchange in the months and years ahead, leave the actual cost of the recent B.C. flotation in London in the position of a gamble. Mr. Jones may have been justified in this instance in taking any steps to correct the province's adverse position. However, financial opinion in Canada is consolidating in the view that public financing, including municipal, should from now on be restricted to domestic flotations, with principal and interest payable in Canadian funds only. This would not necessarily exclude foreign buyers, but they would have to participate on the basis of accepting principal and interest payments in Canadian funds. On the buyer and not on the issuing governments, as at present, would be thrown the risk of exchange fluctuations.

"If we can not issue securities on this basis, we should not issue them at all," says The Financial Times. "Governmental expenditure must be reduced to the capacity of the Canadian investor to absorb public securities." That would seem a sound and conservative policy. Canada has given ample evidence of being able to finance the requirements of its governments. The important advantage lies in the fact that the gauge of the domestic market will automatically provide a healthy and necessary check on excessive government borrowing and spending.

"EMPIRE FIRST" PURCHASES

A CLAUSE STATING THAT QUOTATIONS for empire produce must be made whenever possible has been added by sixty-six borough councils and thirty-six county councils in England to their forms of tender. As a result, 1,250 institutions are now following the rule "Empire First" whenever adequate supplies are available. This follows on visits recently made by the Empire Marketing Board's officers to 143 local authorities and eighty-seven mental hospitals.

The London County Council provides for over 100,000 patients and staff and for the requirements of over 900,000 teachers, students and children. It is one of the largest bulk purchasers in the world, and has given a preference to British goods for the past twenty-five years. The council is now finding it possible to buy a larger proportion of Empire goods than ever before.

Out of nearly 1,400,000 pounds of apples consumed, 1,100,000 were from the Empire. New Zealand mutton and lamb is purchased to the tune of 105,000 stone. Australian and New Zealand butter, East African coffee, Australian beef, and South African fruit is also bought in large quantities.

The London County Council and other local authorities have also adopted the policy of using empire timbers wherever possible. The Falmouth Harbor authorities, for instance, recently decided to use Australian turpentine piles for the new wharf at Falmouth docks. This decision was made after prolonged comparative trials with American "greenheart." British Columbia timber is now being used for harbor works at Belfast, Grimsby, Falmouth and Southampton, and for housing schemes on many of the larger undertakings at Coventry, Liverpool, Glasgow and in London.

Empire timbers, mainly Canadian-grown Douglas fir, have been exclusively used in forty-five out of forty-seven of the major works for which the London County Council has received tenders during the last two years. Other woods used by the London County Council are East African teak, which has been accepted by the council as a fire-resisting timber and is said to be unequalled for windows and outside doors; podo, the strongest known soft wood; African olive, and Australian hardwoods such as jarrah, karri, Tasmanian oak and Queensland walnut, which have decorated many of the banks and public buildings erected in London during the last few years.

SUCH A SCEPTIC!

DESPITE THE UNCHALLENGED VERACITY of the witnesses, substantiated by the wealth of their detailed descriptions, of "its bulbous body and great head." The Ottawa Citizen has the audacity to question the authenticity of British Columbia's ogopogo and its latest manifestation.

In a learned editorial dealing with the forty-foot sea serpent, which was recently twice observed from the deck of the Princess Adelaide in the waters off the north of this Island, The Citizen reveals itself as a rank and most unbecoming sceptic. It says that "if you asked a group of ten persons to draw a representation of the monster from the above specification, you would have ten different objects." As if one would ever think of reducing one's favorite sea serpent to black and white lines on paper!

And then with no consideration whatever for the feelings and pride of the confirmed ogopogites of the Okanagan, The Citizen utters this dreadful heresy:

"It is fairly obvious that most of the sea monsters are figments of the imagination. The powers of human observation are not nearly so dependable as most of us imagine. After all the centuries of sighting sea-serpents and sea monsters, there is not a single case where the data are trustworthy."

That is what comes of living in the political atmosphere of a place like Ottawa. One just naturally becomes sceptical of everything.

DOBBIN COMES BACK

THE HIGH COST OF MOTORING, WITH gasoline and Mr. Jones's taxes so high, and the low cost of keeping and driving a horse, with oats so low, are bringing back Dobbin and the older method of transportation to the highways of the British Columbia hinterland. The Herald of Merritt, B.C., says the folk up there are discovering that to run a car or truck they must provide for high licence cost, gasoline made dearer by taxation and much greater depreciation in some cases, because of roads being out of repair and thus causing more wear and tear. Against this, horses are cheap, feed is to be had in abundance at low cost. Horses do not require one of the B.C. government's costly licence plates. Gasoline carrying a seven-cent tax is not for them; there is succulent grass everywhere.

A Nicola Valley rancher says the present combination of circumstances has induced him to leave his car in the garage while he travels to town by train and ships his pigs to market by stage. A dairyman in the district has reverted to his buggy in making his rounds. Such are examples of what is going on up-country.

But the man who has gone the whole way of reform is a Coldwater Valley farmer. He has converted his motor car into a horse-driven vehicle in which big loads are now pulled with comfort on automobile tires, combining, as it were, advantages of the horse and horseless age.

Is the motorless, horse-drawn automobile to be a sign of the times? Perhaps we will some day be honoring this Coldwater rancher as a man who pioneered a new idea—the Henry Ford of a second horse-car era. If this sort of thing is going to become popular Mr. Jones will have to hurry with another tax.

LAUSANNE

ELEVEN MONTHS HAVE PASSED since the declaration of the Hoover moratorium. It was to have provided a breathing spell for the easing of international tension over war debts and reparations. However, results have failed to justify the hopes momentarily raised nearly one year ago.

The Disarmament Conference at Geneva, from which was expected some gesture that would widen the way for a broad international rapprochement, continues in deadlock. The Danubian countries are in the throes of another economic and financial crisis. For them it is an intensification of the condition of last summer, when the cracking of the Austrian banking structure involved Western Europe and was the immediate cause of Britain abandoning the gold standard. Germany is again in political turmoil. Her disturbing condition is productive of the instructive reaction in France.

Such is the background for the Lausanne Conference which will open next week. It represents one more international effort to bring some order out of the reparations chaos. This gathering itself is a postponement of one called for last January, but put off because of political difficulties then apparent in Germany, France and in other countries. Its definite task is to consider a revision of the Young Plan before the Hoover moratorium expires on July 1. This consideration must be in the wavering light, on the one side of Germany's declaration that she can not resume reparations payments and the threatened complete collapse of her economic and political structure, and on the other, of the complications involved in France's traditionally unyielding attitude, backed of which is the uncertain stand of the United States on war debt payments.

The period since the Hoover declaration at the end of last June has been characterized chiefly by "playing for time." With the year's record of shelving problems by postponement, the situation on the eve of the Lausanne Conference has led Lloyd George to the following conclusion in his latest book: "At this juncture, playing for time is not playing for safety, but fooling with the accelerator while the car is rushing down hill."

The detrimental effect of economic warfare between countries was indicated by the editorial writer in The Christian Science Monitor recently when, referring more particularly to the countries of the American continent, he said:

"Tariffs probably have done more harm to inter-American relations than any other factor. This is the more amazing because in general the trade of the United States with its American neighbors is complementary. In the 'nineties, Secretary Blaine, recognizing this relation, tried to develop a Pan-American customs union. The time for that has probably gone by. But the time for some concession to the idea of reciprocity arrangements is very much present. For it would do two necessary things to-day: Restore some of the lost trade of the United States and heal the growing acerbity in the Canadian and South American attitude toward the United States."

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

CULTURE AND THE RADIO
L'Avenir du Nord, St. Jerome

Nationalized or not, broadcasting should be a power for good, and bring to the people a culture which is generally lacking, for the healthy entertainment of our homes, the formation of good taste and the development of a characteristic Canadian mentality. To this end an intelligent control and an enlightened discernment should keep watch, if not immediately over the programmes at will. The practically unlimited extension of broadcasting has created a new duty to be added to the already grave and numerous ones of family upbringing.

Loose Ends

Some more Bolshevism from the Broad valley of Cowichan—also some mistaken notions—some absurdities concerning the talkies—and some alarm about our beaches.

By H. B. W.

MY FAMILIAR friend, the Bolshevist of Duncan, has broken forth again, and while I am always glad to hear from him, while his dangerous opinions do not alarm me in the least, still, it makes me a little sad to realize that thoughts like these are stirring in the broad valley of the Cowichan at this time of year, when the river rustles under its great maples and one should be cooking lunch by a camp fire, instead of pondering on economic problems, or on anything at all. It is a little sad, I think, to discover that in the heart of Cowichan these days there are such uncomfortable ideas, that in this magic land there should be any thought whatever. Well, it seems there is. My Bolshevist friend assures me that he and his companions are spending all their spare time up there studying Communism, and it is evidently a grief to them that I, though I go a considerable way, should hesitate to endorse Bolshevism outright. They seem to think it is my duty to proclaim the revolution immediately. They resent particularly my notion that our existing economic system might work if we gave it a chance and could be reasonably honest about it, and insist that the Bolshevist system, as it is in effect in Russia, is the only way out of our troubles.

OF COURSE, it is easy to pull our system to pieces. Even I can do it and derive considerable satisfaction thereby, and anyone can see that it will have to mend its ways or go under eventually. But what the Duncan Soviet doesn't seem to realize is that no system is better than the people in it. No system can succeed if the people upholding it are not trying to uphold it. No system can straighten the world out so long as everybody is trying to do everything for himself at the expense of his neighbor, so long as every nation is trying to grow rich at the expense of every other nation. No matter what system had been in effect in the western world in the last ten years, it would have been an utter failure when everybody in the western world had gone temporarily insane in an attempt to get rich over night, when the leaders of the system were dishonest and the followers were quite content that they should be so, provided stocks continued to rise.

PRECISELY in the same way, it will be useless for the Bolshevists of Duncan to change our system outright, to introduce pure communism among us just now. If they want their system to be a success, they had better wait until we are worthy of it. What they don't realize, what most people don't realize, is that we have got just what we deserved lately, that the depression was coming to us, that it wasn't the work of a few criminals but the accumulative result of our own mentality. We all thought we could get something for nothing. When we get over that idea our system will begin to work. Until we do, no system, not even the pure communism which springs from the verdant banks of Cowichan, can bring us permanent prosperity.

A VALUABLE CONTROVERSY was printed in The Christian Science Monitor lately on this vital issue in our civilization: Should the movies talk? The argument in the affirmative, that talk has improved the movies and made them almost intelligent, is familiar enough, but the argument in the negative I find interesting and absurd. The gentleman arguing against talk in the movies has his argument largely on the fact that the silent pictures could be shown in all parts of the world, with a few subtitles translated and, as a result, the movies were a vast and incalculable force for international good will. They bound the nations together in a common bond of celluloid brotherhood.

THIS, I MAY inform you, is all boloney. I am prepared to argue when I have the time that the net effect of the movies on society in this hemisphere has been bad, that perhaps they have been the worst anti-social, anti-moral and anti-economic force with which American civilization has had to struggle. But let that pass. It is the idea that the movies brought understanding among the nations that amuses me. Quite the contrary must be true. The American movies, before the talkies came and they imported English actors to talk English, invariably used to lampoon everything British and make it ridiculous. They nearly always portrayed Oriental peoples in a disgusting light and do still, for that matter. Their villains were usually dark gentlemen from Latin countries, their Germans were gross swine and their Frechmen disgusting fellows whom you wouldn't let pass your door step.

BUT THESE things were small blows at the peace and amity of the world. The chief influence of the movies against the peace and amity of the world was this curious paradox, that in making other people look ridiculous, they succeeded most of all in making the American people ridiculous. Thanks largely to them, the American people are the most misrepresented, most misunderstood and probably the most unpopular race in the world. Such a legend has been built up about them, such a tradition of Roman bathhouses, silken bedrooms, gilded halls, night clubs, and general viciousness, that years will be required to break it down. A long period of education will be needed to inform the world what some of us neighboring people know, that the great bulk of the American people, the real American people apart from the unabsorbed foreign immigrants, are at bottom a pretty decent lot, much like ourselves. Nothing has done more to undermine the goodwill of the world than the present opinion of Americans, not even Americans' opinions of other people. And if the movies have bred goodwill in the world, where in all the world is it?

DESPITE ALL my protestations, despite my proved lack of influence on the authorities, despite the fact that the maple trees of Parliament Square are almost dead now after I tried for two years to have them saved by the government, still people continue to write to me to enlist a support which has always proved worthless. To-day a prominent business man wrote to me (it made me very proud, as you may imagine, to realize that a prominent business man read this column) to urge me to do something about our beaches. He says our beaches around the Dallas Road are becoming a disgrace and an odorous mess from garbage which piles up on them, either from the city garbage scow or passing steamers. The beaches have become so bad, he says, that sometimes they are not fit for children to play on. If my record is any criterion, the condition will proceed to become much worse now that I have mentioned it, but at least I have satisfied the only prominent citizen who has never taken any notice of me.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

The Victoria Daily Times, June 7, 1907
(From The Times Files)

The real estate situation in the city is looking brighter, and although the fall rush is not expected to be as good for at least two or three months yet, nevertheless things are beginning to move and considerable quantities of real estate are being sold. There is a great demand for houses in the city, and although the lack of supply will not be felt so keenly during the summer months, as so many people will be leaving their homes for camping quarters, yet in the fall houses will be almost impossible to obtain.

The annual convention of the King's Daughters resumed its business this morning. The delegates were loud in their praise of the reception held last evening in the room kindly loaned to them by the Alexandra Club.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and Vicinity—Moderate to fresh southerly and westerly winds, fair to-day and to-morrow, with higher temperature.

Last evening at the Briard Hotel a meeting of the Victoria Driving Club was held, at which the members of the various committees reported progress in the different branches of work, in connection with arranging for and perfecting all the multifarious details of a successful race meeting.

To-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock two crews representing the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Victoria Regiment will race in five-oared cutters on the Gorge Inlet. The course will be from the Gorge Bridge round Deadman's Island and return.

BACKS BIBLE'S LITERAL TRUTH

Great Britain Should Have Followed Bible More Closely In Reconstruction Work

Anglo-Saxon Experiment Must Be Continued, Says Noted British Israelite

Great Britain had been the Anglo-Saxon standard bearer in the notable work of economic reconstruction following the World War, she had thrown herself into the breach magnificently but mistakenly. Because she had refused to follow the greatest economic manual, the Bible, and although she had expended ten thousand million pounds sterling in her efforts to rehabilitate Europe, she had squandered every penny in vain.

So said Dr. William Pascoe Goard, editor of The National Message, world British-Israelite organ, and author of a number of books, in a public address on "The Trend of World Events," to a packed Chamber of Commerce auditorium yesterday evening. The lecture will be repeated to-night at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Goard stated he was not speaking as an economist but as a minister expounding the Bible. He felt he was justified in so doing because the world was passing through a prophetic period. To say there was now a great movement of prophecy was a statement of fact and the local speaker who maintained recently that the literal interpretation of the Bible was an exploded theory appeared to ignore this fact.

GENESIS UPHOLD
Research work was daily bringing to light information which added weight to the arguments of those who believed in the literal interpretation of the Bible, Dr. Goard pointed out. Ten years ago, he stated, Dr. of the Chaldees, which the Bible showed was the birthplace of Abraham, was believed to be a non-existent place, a country invented by old historians to fill the gap between mythical and historic time.

The expedition sent out by the British Museum and the Philadelphia University had excavated Ur of the Chaldees and the statement of early Genesis stood, the noted British Israelite continued.

He himself and other students were convinced that in the Bible was a pre-writing of all the subsequent philosophies of the world and all the history of the secular historians. This was because fulfillment had answered Biblical prophecy every time and it showed modern people were the inheritors of the prophecies made to Abraham.

Dr. Goard dealt in some detail with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and what he termed their exalted code: with the early races and the Egyptians and Assyrians; with the five books of Moses, which any good law student would grant had had an incalculable influence on the form of modern law.

In dealing with the British-Israelite attitude to the present unprecedented period, Dr. Goard noted in passing that those who made fun of British Israelism did not understand what it was doing and no matter how scholarly they were they lacked scholarship in that direction. The leaders of British Israelism, he said, had the "highest university degrees and the broadest understanding.

YEAR 1918 PROPHECIES

The present condition of affairs was mysterious to the minds of the world's clearest thinking statesmen, Dr. Goard maintained. Human government had become too great a task for human wisdom. People were no longer governed; they merely adjusted themselves as best they could to the onward sweep of events.

The year 1918, he said, had not only been a prophetic year in the British-Israelite interpretation of the Bible; it had actually been a year when empires had crashed.

Will Europe be reconstructed? Dr. Goard asked. He felt it would be, but not on the old basis. Great Britain's post-war policy of trying to lift up a stricken Europe was useless because the countries of Europe were bent on strangling one another.

The Anglo-Saxon experiment must be carried on, Dr. Goard concluded. But only when the prophetic grinding to dust of the present empires of Europe was done could people look forward to the dawning of a world ruled in spirit, ruled by the Lord God Omnipotent and administered by Him who now sits on the right hand of God.

PROGRESS OF MOVEMENT

The meeting opened with a verse of "Abide With Me." Rev. A. deB. Owen then read the blessing. H. B. Better, president of the British Columbia British Israel Federation, was in the chair and introduced the speaker.

People were taking notice of British Israelism now, said Mr. Better. It was some time since British Israelites had looked upon as cranks. They were a new sect, but were to be found in Christian congregations of all denominations. Their credo was that the Bible from cover to cover was God's written word, and that everything in it was literally true.

Greetings were brought from W. Blackaller, president of the British Israel Federation of Canada. Mr. Blackaller stressed the tremendous advancement made by British Israelism during the present century. This progress leaps and bounds he attributed to the fact that people were realizing that God was moving in the earth.

E. E. Richards, president of the local Middleton branch of the British Israel Federation, moved the vote of thanks to Dr. Goard.

Prices charged for liquor at the distilleries must come down or few orders will be received from the Liquor Control Board, it was intimated in a circular letter sent today to all first-class business with the board. With employment on the decrease and liquor prices on the increase, this provision stands to lose much revenue. Sales of liquor have decreased to such an extent that employees in vendors' stores have been working but half time for a considerable period.

Miss Ann Adam's Recipe for Bran Muffins

1/2 cup bran 1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 cups flour 1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt 1 egg
3 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
Mix the bran with the sifted fine dry ingredients. Make a well in the centre and pour in the milk and well-beaten egg. With the fewest possible number of strokes, blend these ingredients and stir in the shortening. Half fill greased muffin pans and bake in a hot oven, 400°F., 15 to 20 minutes. A few chopped dates, lightly coated with some of the measured flour, may be added.

SMART WEDDING AT ST. MARY'S

Miss Doreen Grant and Mr. Sydney Balfour United in Marriage

A wedding in which interest was extended to the mainland and to Great Britain took place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, when Doreen, daughter of Alexander Fitzpatrick Grant, of "Elchies," Strathpey, Morayshire, Scotland, and of Mrs. T. B. Grant, of Victoria, and granddaughter of the late Capt. W. J. Grant and Mrs. Grant, Victoria, became the bride of Mr. Sydney Balfour, son of Mr. H. Balfour, O.S.B., and Mrs. Balfour of "Byways," Binfeld, Berks, England.

The service was fully choral and the bride party was met at the entrance to the church by the boys' choir, who preceded them to the altar singing "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden," while the other hymns sung at the conclusion of the service was "May the Grace of Christ, Our Saviour." During the signing of the register, two of the choir boys, Master David—Gross and Bobby Williams sang "O Perfect Love." Mr. F. T. C. Wickett presided at the organ and rendered the wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Norman Rant, the bride made a demure picture in her wedding gown of ivory tulle, modeled in replica of the bride's gown worn at the wedding of Queen Victoria. The bodice had a rounded neck line in front and was V-shaped in the back. Outlining the neckline was an exquisite piece of Brussels lace which formed a slight frill in front with the ends crossed over each other at the back. Shirting at either side of the bodice relieved the simplicity of the design, while short puff sleeves added to the quaintness of the waist. The skirt was long and full, touching the floor. Over the gown was draped a Limerick lace veil, a family heirloom which was arranged on her head in a simple manner with a band and was held in place with a circlet of orange blossoms. Falling over her shoulders the handsome lace mittens and carried a lace handkerchief, both of which had been worn by her great-aunt. Her bouquet was a sheaf of pink and white bridal roses and Madeline lilies.

Her only attendant was her cousin, Miss Daphne Marriott of Vancouver, whose frock of net was in pastel shades of pink, mauve and blue. The close-fitting bodice had short puff sleeves, while the full skirt was formed of alternate rows of net in the three shades. She wore a picture hat of cream straw trimmed with net in the same shades as her frock, and her arm bouquet was composed of blue delphiniums and pink snapdragons. The bridesmaids were Misses Mabel Roberts of Vancouver.

Following the ceremony a reception, at which only members of the bride's family were present, was held at the home of the bride's mother, "Alcove," 2304 Main Street, Oak Bay, where Mrs. Tye assisted in receiving the guests. A gown of pink-bloss and lace, decorated with close-fitting, long, nigger brown silk crepe with short net and a row of pink roses, was worn by the bride. The bridesmaids wore pink and mauve sweet peas.

Mr. Balfour, who was now on his way to Harrison Hot Springs, where the honeymoon will be spent, will make his return to Vancouver at the end of the week. Mr. Balfour entered the Royal Navy at the age of fourteen. During the war was in active service, but at the conclusion of hostilities retired. Most attractive were the decorations at the church, where a profusion of early summer blooms were arranged on the chancel rail and the guest pews by Mrs. Tim Matson, Mrs. A. C. Cousland and Mrs. Cuthbert Holmes. While at the house, a color scheme of pink, mauve and blue was carried out in the floral decorations, which were the handwork of Mrs. Hugo Beach, Mrs. Curtis Sampson, Miss Mary Swinnerton and Miss Babe Musgrave.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Capt. and Mrs. E. D. Clarke of Vancouver, and the aunt of the bride; Capt. and Mrs. Hugh Robb, Mrs. A. Rogers and Mrs. Duncan Bell-Irving, all of Vancouver.

For traveling the bride chose a tailored two-piece suit of beige tweed and close-fitting Henry Heath felt hat with accessories to match.

DOCKHOBORS HAPPY IN HOME

Fifteen Settlers' Children Among Those in Orphanage

The monthly meeting of the ladies' committee met at the Protestant Orphanage with the president, Mrs. C. H. Walker, in the chair and the following members present: Mesdames Longstaff, Elliott, Hughes, E. M. Brown, Shepherd, Cox, Grimson, Simpson, Dorman, McKewen, O. M. Brown, Coutts, Fraser, Raper, Dinmore and the Misses Newbury and Murray. There are now sixty-six children, fifteen Dockhobors being admitted in May. They are settling down to their new home and are bright, happy children. Four other children were also admitted as well. All celebrated May 24 with a picnic at Willow Beach. Final arrangements were made for the Pound Party to-morrow, June 8, which will be enlivened by the Victoria Girls' Band. Visiting ladies for June are Mrs. Grimshaw and Mrs. Shepherd. Donations received: Mrs. Crawford, fresh milk; Mr. Richards, six jars fruit; Mrs. Knott, shoes and clothing; Mrs. P. Clarke of Vancouver, who came over to attend the Balfour-Grant wedding, which took place this afternoon, are the guests of Mrs. Clarke's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. D. Pemberton, Poul Bay Road, who also have staying with them Captain and Mrs. Hugh Robb of Vancouver, who came over for the wedding.

Miss Frances Jones entertained this afternoon at the tea hour at the summer home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jones at Sidney in honor of the birthday of her daughter, Miss Elsie Multhead, who is now in Victoria. Miss Elsie Multhead and Miss Elvira Bruhn were seated at the tea table, which was attractively centered with a bowl of yellow roses, while lighted palm trees in silver scones lent a further pleasing touch to the table appointments. About forty guests were present.

A very successful progressive five hundred card party was held last Saturday evening at the headquarters of the Bowles Bowls Band, 1501 Fort Street. Twelve tables were arranged by the ladies of the band committee in charge of Mrs. R. S. Dalby, Mrs. E. Warburton and Mrs. M. A. Morris, who decorated the rooms and served refreshments after the cards. Mr. P. W. Wilson, the chairman of the band committee, moved a vote of thanks to Mr. D. Evans for the use of the rooms for the evening. Mr. Percy E. George acted as master of ceremonies during the evening.

In honor of Miss Violet Dunn, a June bride-elect, Mrs. Ernest E. Empress Avenue, entertained recently with a tea and handkerchief shower. During the afternoon little Miss Joyce Donaldson presented Miss Violet Dunn with a decorated palm filled with many handkerchiefs. The tea table was attractively decorated with tall green candles and a bowl of schinanthus centred the table. A bridal cake made of ice cream was cut by the bride-elect. Tea was poured by Mrs. W. E. Dunn and Mrs. H. Catterall. The guests included Mrs. W. E. Dunn, Mrs. M. Elliott, Mrs. J. D. Davis, Mrs. D. Donaldson, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. H. Baker, Mrs. E. Eve, Mrs. K. Shapland, Mrs. F. Shapland, Mrs. P. Pomeroy, Mrs. Stevie, Mrs. A. Nichols, Mrs. H. Catterall, Miss Nan Eve and Miss June Dunn.

The Misses Elsie Deville and Marjorie Roode were joint hostesses at a miscellaneous shower on Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roode. Corrie Stevie, in honor of Miss Winnie Arrowsmith, whose marriage to Miss Alfred Nunn will take place this month, Miss Arrowsmith was the recipient of many beautiful gifts arranged in a basket decorated in mauve and green. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Arrowsmith, Mr. and Mrs. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. MacAuley, Mrs. and Mrs. Roode, Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Meager, Mrs. Daville, Mrs. Morgan, Misses Jean Barker, Helen Roode, Valentine Ireland, Mona Morgan, Winnie Arrowsmith, Eva Roode and Messrs. Art Meager, Roy Meager, Bob Meager, Stan Richard, Roy Barker, Alf Nunn, Sam Arrowsmith and Ben Readings.

MARRIED AT GRACE CHURCH

Miss M. J. Miller and Mr. McDonald MacLean Wed Yesterday Evening

A marriage was solemnized yesterday evening at Grace Lutheran Church at 9 o'clock when Margaret Jeanette, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacLeod Miller, Fernwood Road, became the bride of Mr. McDonald MacLean of Winnipeg. Rev. T. A. Jensen performed the ceremony. For the occasion the church had been artistically decorated with baskets of early summer flowers and ferns, and the organ was presided over by Miss Albertine Miller, sister of the bride. During the service Miss Gladys MacLeach sang the "Psalm of Love," arranged by Simpson and Forrester. Both the bride and groom were unattended. Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked charming in her dainty gown of eggshell net. The high-waisted bodice was fashioned with a yoke and puff sleeves, and the close-fitting skirt was flared below the knees and finished with scalloped edges with ruchings of net. A sash of apple blue chiffon velvet encircled the waist. She wore a bandeau of orange blossoms in her hair, long silk eggshell mitts, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses.

An informal reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. L. E. Gower, Belmont Avenue, where roses in profusion were arranged in the reception room. Here the guests were welcomed by Mrs. Gower, wearing a smart brown floral frock with hat to tone, and by Mrs. Miller in a gown of black and fawn satin and a fawn hat. The supper table was centred with the three-tier cake, and was arranged with roses and tall yellow candles in silver holders. Mrs. T. A. Jensen and Mrs. J. Jensen poured the tea and coffee, and were assisted by Mrs. John Rood and Miss Margaret Lightbody, Ella Beveridge, Edith Green, and Jeanne and Helen Brown.

After a few days at Brentwood, Mr. and Mrs. MacLean will leave for the Yukon, where they will spend the summer. The bride left in a tailored green tweed suit and dark brown hat, shoes and bag, and other accessories.

JUBILEE JUNIOR W.A. IS ACTIVE

Officers Elected and Activities Reviewed at W.A. Meeting

Mrs. K. R. F. Dennison was elected president of the Junior Women's Auxiliary of the Jubilee Hospital at the annual meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Nurses' Home.

Other officers were elected as follows: First vice-president, Mrs. George Tyson; second vice-president, Miss Kathleen Glary; secretary, Mrs. Fred Cabell; and treasurer, Mrs. W. Parker. Mrs. R. A. Woodson, vice-president, was in the chair.

The secretary's report, read by Miss Alice Cotton, showed a successful year of activity. The hospital auxiliary now totaling ninety-five, thirty-four new members having joined since last year.

The new work in connection with social welfare among indigent patients in the hospital had been successfully carried on and 125 cases had been cared by the various special committees. In this connection Mrs. E. F. Goodland, convener of the vocational committee, reported that the patients in the children's ward had been visited each week by members of this committee, and the furnishing of a doll's house, knitting threads, beads, jig-saw puzzles and other handwork had been carried on under the direction of the committee.

Miss Mary Campbell reported that thirty-eight cases had been cared for by the diet committee, and under the direction of Mrs. Herbert Clark patients had been taken for drives, and from the hospital for treatment, the transportation committee having done most useful work.

Mrs. Dennison reported that the clothes committee had attended to thirty-nine cases and supplied clothing, which had been much appreciated.

Mrs. B. B. Wilson, convener of the magazine committee, reported that generous donations of reading matter had been received, though more was always in demand. Visits had been paid to patients in the hospital by the visiting committee, under the direction of Mrs. J. Jackson and recently Mrs. John A. Stevie, a total of ninety-nine visits having come to the attention of this group.

A bridge tea, in November and a fashion show in April had both been most successful undertakings, and a considerable sum had been added to the auxiliary's funds by these means.

Miss Helen Forman, the treasurer, reported that $194.37 had been expended during the year on social work alone. In appreciation of her splendid work as president during the last two years, the members sent a letter of appreciation to Miss Dorothy Scott, and expressed a special vote of thanks to the Jubilee Hospital Senior W.A. for its co-operation and many kindnesses.

SINGERS GIVE OPERA SONGS

Many Promising Voices Heard In Ambitious Programme of Great Masters

Male Sextette in "Robin Hood" Proves Lighter Selections More Popular

Exceedingly interesting was the programme of opera and lieder presented yesterday evening at the Shrine Auditorium by Mme. de Turczynowicz under the auspices of the Victoria Operatic Society. Several well-known singers of Victoria appeared on the programme.

The programme, on the whole, was little too ambitious for this group of singers, or, for that matter, any group of local singers. There was also little too much foreign tongue, and it was obvious the audience felt relieved when selections were rendered in English. Some surprisingly fine voices were heard, however, and if properly encouraged and trained should go a long way in the music world, provided they stay with numbers of which they are capable.

Thelma Johns and Harry Johns are two of Victoria's best-known singers. As usual, they were both in excellent voice. They presented a duet from "Rigoletto," and later Mrs. Johns gave three German numbers by Wagner, Schubert and Brahms. Dr. John's solo group included Massenet's "Vision fugitive" and a selection from Lohengrin. His fine bass voice was well displayed in both these numbers.

FOUR SINGERS
Making her first appearance on the local platform, Miss Phyllis Deaville showed much promise. Her voice was well placed in a selection from "The Magic Flute," a Gieg number, and an appealing song by Schubert.

Dudley Wickett, also one of the city's promising young singers, chose two delightful English selections, "By the River Don" and "Oh, at My Lady's Feet."

The dramatic voice of Clifford Prescott was heard in a rousing number from Verdi's "Masked Ball," and in "Even the Brave Heart," from Faust. His rendition of both was pleasing.

Three Schumann numbers, sung in German, and Barnet's "Drums of the Sea," were chosen by Harry Davis. The latter he was quite good. He showed a good knowledge of the language in which he sang.

Dorothy Parsons is developing into really fine singer and yesterday evening displayed her wide range of repertoire in four duets with Miss Norah Jones, and in a solo group. She and Miss Jones did very well indeed in "Tuscan Folk Songs," by Caracciolo. Their joint effort was one of the best of the evening. Miss Parsons' solo group was composed of "Ella's Dream," from Lohengrin, Barnet's "Mood," and "When I Was Seventeen," the latter a delightfully lilting piece that showed the lighter qualities of her voice.

Gounod's famous "Jewel Song," from his opera, "Faust," was the extremely difficult selection presented by Freda Groves. She also sang a Monteverdi number.

Flora Grant did well in Bishop's "Go, Hear the Gentle Lark," with a flute obligato by J. H. Jones. Her other number was an aria by von Weber.

Frederic Lister appeared to advantage in an attractive song from "Rigoletto." He did it very well, and received quite an ovation. His other numbers were in German, and written by Schubert and Frank.

Perhaps the most popular number on the entire programme was the male sextette from de Koven's lovely light opera, "Robin Hood." The same singers

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

Many brides, watching experienced housewives in the kitchen, feel that too often judgment is a matter of instinct and that in their own cases this instinct is lacking. But the fact probably is that it is experience which accounts for the apparently intuitive management of saucers and ovens and their days of apprenticeship are forgotten with the passing of time.

Undoubtedly, there is a "knack" for various branches of cookery, but success is not a matter of luck. It is just a matter of doing things the right way, and doing them as easily as the wrong if one knows the fundamentals upon which success really depends.

Since June is a month rich in fruits and vegetables, let's begin with a few "do's" and "don'ts" regarding them.

Whenever fruit is cooked, be it fresh or dried, do not add sugar until the fruit is tender. If sugar is added sooner, the skin tends to toughen and the texture of the fruit is hard, not what the fruit is as sweet and delicately flavoured. The more acid the fruit, the more important the rule. Sugar cooked into rhubarb develops a strong flavor and a stringy texture.

MUST NOT REMAIN IN WATER
Never let fruit stand in water. Wash it thoroughly and carefully—then drain and use at once.

This same rule applies to vegetables, also. Wash them well and prepare for cooking. If they are wilted, they may be put into water just long enough to freshen them. This should be done before they are trimmed or cut in any way.

Cook vegetables in as little water as possible to prevent burning. Take care not to over-cook them and serve them as soon as they are done. Cook in fresh or dried, do not add salt when they are half-cooked. Since most of the succulent summer vegetables will cook in twenty to thirty minutes, if the "half-done" stage confuses you, add the salt at the end of ten minutes.

Cook green vegetables uncovered if you would preserve their color. Strongly juiced vegetables, such as cabbage and cauliflower, should also be cooked uncovered and in a larger amount of water.

When a sauce is made for vegetables, it will be finer flavored if half milk and half vegetable stock is used.

White sauce in varying degrees of richness is generally liked with most vegetables. A thin sauce, the consistency of rich cream, is delicious over green beans and peas. A thicker sauce that coats the vegetable is used for new potatoes and cauliflower. But no matter how thick the sauce may be, it is always made the same: melt the butter, stir in the flour, and slowly add the milk, stirring constantly, the liquid, which should be cold. Two tablespoons butter, from two teaspoons to two tablespoons flour, and one-half teaspoon salt are the proportions to use with one cup of liquid to make one cup of white sauce. The less flour, the thinner the sauce. Vegetables must of course be drained before combining with the sauce.

Most recipes make two much for a family of two. The average recipe is planned to serve four to six persons so that usually half the recipe will give generous servings for two persons. Be sure to use half of each ingredient when you reduce a recipe. If five eggs are called for, it's a good idea to use three small ones for half the amount and if three eggs are needed, use two small ones.

TO-MORROW'S MENU
Breakfast—Fresh apricots, cereal, cream, creamed dried beef, toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Asparagus soufflé, tomatoes with Russian dressing, rice pudding with dates, milk, tea.
Dinner—Roast leg of lamb, browned new potatoes, gravy, peas in cream, tomato stuffed with cabbage and pineapple, rhubarb parfait, milk.

GIRL GUIDES ARE READY FOR PARTY

Garden Fete on Saturday Next At Mrs. W. C. Nichol's Residence

At the meeting held yesterday evening of the Girl Guides final arrangements were made for the annual garden fete to be held on Saturday next at "Rosedene," the residence of Mrs. W. C. Nichol, 1759 Rockland Avenue.

Disappointment was expressed that Mrs. Alan Morkill, provincial commissioner, would not be able to be present. A letter of regret explained that she was attending a guide rally at Nanaimo on that date. Mrs. Morkill informed the association that she had called congratulations from British Columbia Guides to Dame Olive Baden Powell on the honor recently conferred upon her.

A report of the "Guides Own" service, held in the First United Church, commencing the twenty-first year of guides, was given by Mrs. W. C. Nichol, divisional commissioner.

Mrs. Archibald, district commissioner, reported that she had enrolled fifteen guides in the new Victoria West company, and had attended a meeting of the newly-formed Colquhoun company and enrolled twelve guides.

BRIDGE TEA—The members of the S.O.S. Club of Queen City Chapter No. 5, O.E.S., held a very successful silver tea and bridge at the home of Capt. and Mrs. C. I. Harris, 356 Simcoe Street, Saturday.

The tea table, centred with a silver basket of mauve and pink sweet peas, was presided over by Mrs. M. Austin, Mrs. E. Rankin and Mrs. M. Birnie. Those taking part in a programme during the afternoon were the Misses Iris and Shirley Roal and Ruth and Dorothy Adams, accompanied by Mrs. Adams; Misses Ina Easton and Edna Robinson, vocal duet numbers; Miss Edna Dilworth, soloist; all accompanied by Mrs. Nora Fisher. The president, Miss Evelyn Florence, presented the hostess during the afternoon with a lovely bouquet of pink carnations and blue iris. Fortune telling and a novelty stall were also much enjoyed by the guests.

The prizes for the bridge in the evening were won by Mrs. A. Dunlop, ladies' first, and Miss Carrie White, second; Mr. S. H. O'Neil, gentlemen's first, and Mrs. C. R. Clarke, second. The holder for the lucky number for the cushion which was given away was No. 448, N. H. Burnett. The tombola prize was won by Miss Hattie Edwards, ticket No. 844.

It is requested that the members who have cars and intend going to the garden party call on Mrs. Ernest Eves, E-2177, transportation convenor, also members who would like transportation, and she will make the necessary arrangements to suit everybody.

YOUR BABY and Mine
By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

BABY APT TO TURN UP NOSE AT NEW FOODS
The texture of different foods makes them disagreeable to children who are unusually sensitive to such differences. But a child's refusal of a food should not be taken seriously. It is to be expected just at first.

NEW FOODS
The baby who has been reared principally on a bland food like milk is almost certain to make a wary face when first introduced to a tablespoonful of rather tart orange juice. The baby who has been dining sumptuously on liquids which slip down his throat without the least effort, is almost sure to spit out those first few spoonfuls of cereal which demand an entirely different tongue technique to be swallowed successfully.

Instead of recognizing that baby has to learn to manage these new foods, and that mother should be patient and helpful until he does, most mothers interpret this spitting out as a symptom of baby's dislike or of plain stubbornness.

DO NOT FORCE FOODS
Forcing the food on the child in one absolutely sure way of turning his faint surprise and caution into actual dislike. There are all kinds of tactful ways to help baby want to accept this new food. Some of them are suggested in the "Mother's Magazine" series, "New Foods in the Child's Diet."

I wish every mother would avail herself of this leaflet before she starts holding baby's nose in an effort to make him swallow the cereal or vegetable or whatever food she is sure he dislikes. A self-addressed, stamped envelope should accompany your request for this leaflet. Write to the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

Mrs. T. R. has started forcing food with no very brilliant results. "Baby is nine months old and weighs sixteen pounds," she says. "She is fed a dried milk five times daily, and one bottle has an egg mixed into it. She likes vegetables, but will not touch cereal. I have to hold her nose and force tomato or orange juice down her throat. She has been standing since her eighth month, and her legs are none too straight. What causes her urine to smell like ammonia? Her head sweats terribly and I have been told that this with bow-legs means rickets. She also takes cold very easily. I shall welcome your advice."

WHOLE MILK
Change to one quart of whole milk now and give four bottles of it daily. Add the eggs yolk to one bottle, and in each of two others include one ounce of strained, sweet orange juice. Increase the amount of cod liver oil to two teaspoonfuls a day, and continue this until baby can have a sunbath daily. The orange juice and more vegetables should help the ammonia in the urine, which may be caused by the way you are washing the diapers without boiling or sunning, or may be due to lack of sufficient alkaline ash foods in the diet. Orange juice is an alkaline ash food.

Try banana or baked potato instead

WELSH SOCIETY PLANS OUTING

Will Spend Dominion Day at Elk Lake

The annual picnic of the Victoria Cymrodorion Society will be held on Dominion day at the Curlew grounds at Elk Lake. A committee has been named to prepare a programme for the outing.

The society, through its president, D. Evans, welcomed to Friday's meeting Mrs. Price of Edmonton, a member of the sister society in that city. She is now visiting friends in Victoria.

Another feature of the evening was the extending of best wishes to three members who are leaving shortly for a visit to their old home in Wales. They are Alfred Meade, Edward Jones and Hugh Thomas. A varied programme of music was given. The meeting opened with the singing of "Aberystwyth," with Miss Jessie Jones, A.L.C.M., accompanist. Miss Phyllis Irish contributed piano solos; Mrs. Driscoll, vocal solos; Miss Havarina Davies, piano solos; Miss Kathleen Cummins, vocal selection; J. Master, piano, accordion number and W. Clark, guitar solos. Hawaiian guitar numbers were rendered by Miss Alex Williams. Mrs. Dash and W. Clark. A dance given by E. Weisshank and Miss L. Stratford was much enjoyed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. T. Williams.

Yes, not all those who dip into Henna post and peroxide bottles for locks of red and white gold, and to hide tell-tale silver reminders of passing birthdays, are Eve's daughters—not by an estimated 10 per cent.

This information slipped out to-day when several persons, including the owner of one of the city's swankiest beauty shops and an official in the Illinois Hair Dressers' Association, sat around a table discussing shop.

"One would be surprised at the number of judges and well-known men in town who have dyed hair," said the beauty shop owner.

These were the reasons given for the hair tinting and restoring jobs of younger wives to be held, a desire to remain in the swim of things and vanity, the nickname is Adam.

But no "one-feature" gasoline will give you all these things. Somewhere—in starting—or mileage—or pull—"one-purpose" fuels cause engine waste.

Try a fuel now that is balanced for every driving condition—Shell 3-energy gasoline. It provides every needed kind of energy.

Quick energy; power energy; anti-knock energy

In this new motor fuel, you get no waste from gassy fractions or from the ends near kerosene. Shell gives you only the three vital kinds of energy. And makes your motor do every one of its jobs better!

What about anti-knock?

In repeated tests of every non-premium fuel in this market, the new Shell 3-energy gasoline has consistently scored the highest anti-knock rating of them all!

But that's only one of its many advantages. Try it—and you'll say good-by to "one-feature" gasolines forever. Shell service stations and Shell dealers.

SEALED TANKS! For your protection, Shell 3-energy is colored golden amber. Every station tank that is filled with it is sealed. You know what you're getting from the yellow Shell pump.

(The energy you need in a hurry—for starts, shifts, bursts of speed)

(The power flow for miles of smooth, economical driving)

(Tests proved this gasoline higher in octane value than any other non-premium fuel)

Reduces engine waste!

Second Marriage Fatal Where Children Are Concerned?—Pestiferous Neighbor Who Slanders Her Husband—No Hope of Reform for Friendly (?) Book Thief

DEAR MISS DIX—I was a widower with two children, a boy and a girl, both nearly grown, as fine a boy and girl as any father could wish and we had always been very devoted to each other and very companionable. A year and a half ago I married a widow with a boy of fifteen, a spoiled, fresh youngster who treats me and mine with the greatest contempt. He finds fault with everything and his mother upholds him. My wife is very high tempered and fault finding and picks on me and my children continually. My children, to save me, never say anything, but I know how unhappy they are. Our home life is a hell and I am sick. What can I do except reflect on what a fool I have been? Tell widowers with children not to marry, especially a woman with children.

A MAN IN TROUBLE.

Answer—You make me laugh, even though I could weep over your desperate situation. But the idea of widows and widowers being warned by anyone else's fate, no matter how tragic it is, is so exquisitely absurd. Why, widows and widowers are the marryingest people there are and you could not stop them if you lined both sides of the road to the altar with red lanterns.

Wise old Dr. Johnson said that a second marriage was the final triumph of hope over experience, and this goes double for widows and widowers with children. Every one of them have known scores of men and women with punches of little olive branches who remarried after their first husband or wife died, and they know the trouble and suffering that virtually every one of these marriages brought on the men and women themselves and their unfortunate children, and yet these AWFUL WARNINGS do not keep a single one of them from risking their own and their children's wellbeing by marrying again.

Sometimes they even have the nerve to try to justify their second marriages by claiming that they do it for the children's sake. You will hear a woman say: "I felt that I needed a father for my boys and a man to help me bring them up," when she knows as well as she knows anything on earth that ninety-nine times out of a hundred her boys and their step-father are going to hate each other and fight tooth and nail until the boys are big enough to leave their unhappy home. And it is nothing uncommon to hear a middle-aged man who is marrying a flapper younger than his daughters say that he is doing it to give them a mother.

Now marriage is a risky business when, how and whom you marry, and when you throw into it a ready-made family you make it such a chance proposition that nothing but an especial act of Providence can save it from disaster.

Of course, now and then a miracle is wrought and a widow gets a second husband who is wise and kind and just to her children and a widower is lucky enough to find a woman who has a big enough mother-heart to take in his children and treat them as if they were her own.

But this also happens about as rarely as finding a complete set of hen's teeth. And it virtually never happens when the widow has children of her own. It takes a superwoman to deal fairly between her children and her husband's children.

Blame nature for this. Children are noisy, destructive, selfish, unreasonable. They make work and trouble. When they are her own a woman loves to serve them and enjoys sacrificing for them and it pleases her when her husband is devoted to them, but when they are another woman's children it is a different story.

Then they become nuisances and brats and she resents their father's attention to them. Same way with a man. He enjoys working to support his own children and give them advantages. He loves to see his wife pet and caress them and devote herself to them and be foolish over them, but when they are another man's children he has to have to support them and he is bitterly jealous of his wife preferring them to him.

And there is no misery on earth worse than that of the woman and man who stand helplessly and see their children mistreated and neglected, and who are even afraid to show them any affection themselves and no choice harder than that of the man and woman who must choose between their mates and their children.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—What can I do with a neighbor who comes to my house two or three times every week and spends the afternoon slandering her husband to me? I do not want to hear her grievances which I know are mostly imaginary. I asked her why it was that she said he was a scoundrel and she did not get a divorce, and she replied that she did not believe in divorce. I am so sick of her. What can I do?

ELLA.

Answer—What to do with the pestiferous neighbors who monopolize our time and depress our spirits with their mournful monologues is a problem only because we lack the courage to deal with it frankly. Personally, I never know whether to admire most the heroism that makes us martyrize ourselves to bores for the sake of politeness or to have a contempt for the cowardice that makes us endure useless suffering when we could end it all by a few well-chosen words.

What we should say to such a woman is: "My dear Mrs. X, I am a busy woman with a thousand interesting things that I want to do and I simply have not got the time to be visited to death. If you want to come to see me every now and then I will be glad to give you half an hour, say, once a month, but this thing of hanging you camped on my living-room chairs for two or three hours several times a week has become a nuisance and an imposition that I cannot stand."

Also, I must beg you when you do come not to tell me about your troubles with your husband. I do not want to know about his crimes and misdemeanors. I am not interested in his character or disposition and I do not care a rap whether he sleeps out of an evening or stays at home or whether he admires blondes or brunettes or whether he plays pool or goes to prayer meeting. How he treats you is a matter between him and you and it is not my concern.

"If you are so unhappy with him and hate him so badly that you cannot resist slandering him, get a divorce and be done with it. But either put up or shut up."

Of course, that would make Mrs. X's, who are always borrowing our ears to pour their tales of woe into them, perfectly furious and they would go away and say awful things about us, but at least we would be rid of them and if nobody would listen to them they would have to find some other indoor amusement than decanting upon their secret sorrows and there would be no peace in the land.

Of course, none of us have the courage to throw these bores out of doors and so we have to suffer from the perpetual visitor and the never-ending whiner. Which serves us right for being such poor, miserable cowards.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—Can you suggest something through your widely read column that will appeal to the honor of those friends and neighbors who borrow books and never return them?

L.S.

Answer—No, indeed. If I knew anything that would touch the heart and move the conscience of book thieves, my own library would be hundreds of volumes larger. I have accepted the inevitable and when anyone borrows a book from me I just kiss it good-by, knowing that I will never see it again. Why people who are honest about other things will steal your books, I do not know. It is merely so.

DOROTHY DIX.

Interesting Trees

H—MONKEY-BREAD AND BREAD-FRUIT

There is a tree which monkeys like to visit. They can climb about this tree and obtain a dinner.

This tree is sometimes called the monkey-bread tree, and it is found in West Africa. The "bread" for the monkeys is the fruit of the tree.

Natives of Africa eat the leaves of this tree, mixed with other food. They also press juice from the fruit and use it in making a refreshing drink.

The baobab tree is not nearly so tall as some other trees, but it has wide-spreading branches. Sometimes the branches spread out as much as 150 feet, measuring from one side of the tree to the other. The trunks have a thickness of from 20 to 30 feet. On Thursday I shall speak of trees which have even thicker trunks, but 30 feet is enough to wonder at. The limbs of these trees are in many cases as thick as the trunks of good-sized oaks.

Another strange tree is the breadfruit which grows in many parts of the tropics, and which is especially famed on the South Sea Islands. Bread-fruit trees grow to a height of from 35 to 60 feet. If you looked at the fruit of one of them, you almost surely would be reminded of melons; and it might seem strange to see melons hanging from the branches of a tree.

The fruit of this tree contains a thick, milky juice which may be used as a drink. The common custom, however, is to bake the fruit in the hot embers of a bonfire. Then the inside is scooped out. It may be eaten at once, or it may be cut into slices, dried in the sun and made into flour. From breadfruit flour, natives make bread, biscuits and puddings.

People of the South Sea Islands use the wood of this tree in making boats and furniture. The sticky juice from the trunk is turned into glue. The inner bark is stripped and made into cloth.

Reading of the breadfruit tree, you may dream of sailing to the South Sea Islands where you may pick your dinner from a tree and get your clothing from the bark. That may sound like a simple life, but do not forget that the tropics have insects which keep life from being as pleasant as it should be.

(This story may be placed in "Nature" section of your scrapbook.) To-morrow—Cypress Trees.

ALPINISTS AT SOOKE CAMP

Fine New Buildings at Lake of Seven Hills Now Opened for Season

Splendid Accommodation
Furnished at Headquarters;
Construction Completed

Members of the Vancouver Island section of the Alpine Club of Canada returned to their homes yesterday after a three-day camp at the Lake of the Seven Hills, where they officially opened their new completed quarters for the 1932 season. Approximately fifty-six members gathered for the opening function and luncheon on Friday.

The group inspected the camp in the picturesque seven hills, part of Victoria's skyline seen from the corner of Yates and Government Street, in the Sooke region.

Beside the lake, half a mile long by one-third of a mile wide at its broadest point, dotted with its pretty islands, the club has established splendid headquarters for its trips into the beauty spots of the southern end of the island.

The main cabin, constructed of upright cedar logs, presents a unique and attractive appearance in its splendid setting. The lower floor of the hall is composed of great cedars, while the upper is built of smaller poles. The roof is covered with the highest grade Sidney Rubber Roofing Company shingling material, taken in by pack trains.

SPACIOUS ROOMS
Inside the main building the walls are papered and finished in V-joint which makes them waterproof even in the most severe gale. All floors are double laid, the main room being twenty feet by thirty, while the room above is sixteen by thirty. Staunch cedar log beams support the roof and furnish an attractive and substantial bracing for the upper room.

Behind the main hut is the kitchen, made of upright fir logs, paper lined and finished with galvanized iron. Immediately behind it and connected to it, is the store room, protected by construction against thieves and other rodents. The kitchen has a floor space about eleven feet square, the store room, one of eight by eleven feet.

In the main dining-room in the cabin dining accommodation is provided for a large number of guests. The two tables can be extended to provide for crowds of an unusual size.

One of the most outstanding features of the main building are the wonderful stairs built by the expert broad axe of Hugh Campbell, a master woodman of the district.

In front of the main cabin a roofed veranda, eight feet wide by thirty feet long, made of five-inch hewn planks, furnishes a splendid lounging spot for parties staying there.

Directly outside of the kitchen is a big terrace, tapering from twenty feet at the top to three at the bottom. It stands six feet high and is twelve feet long. Into this is thrown all the refuse from the camp.

A huge cement and stone outdoor cooking place has also been built, with a double chimney, one column of which contains an oven.

Nearby stands an open air dining house, roofed over, with a seating capacity of sixty.

Just around a bend in the lake is a special Bonfire Island on which the company gathers for sing-song and other attractions in the evening. It is connected to the mainland by a long bridge, and is the only spot on which fires are permitted. By this regulation the club has eliminated possibilities of bush fires.

The party which arrived at the camp on Friday, spent considerable time inspecting the different units which had been built up in the last three years.

W. H. Dougan, an old-time mountaineer and vice-president of the club, addressed the gathering on the camp, speaking of its inception and gradual development. Following his talk, fifty-six sat down to luncheon in the new dining hall.

For the next two days various parties went on trips to the surrounding mountains, some groups visiting Mount Empress and Hills Five and Six.

Each night a bonfire was enjoyed and a few of the members completed the construction of a corral for the horses. Harry Vogel will be in charge of the pack animals during the summer.

It is hoped to keep the tract of land a sanctuary for wild life as well as a beauty spot. The camp will be open to members throughout the summer, and many parties will journey to it, including a big group scheduled to open the summer camp at the end of the month.

Garage Walls Referred To Fire Wardens

On the question of drafting a by-law requiring solid walls of masonry in basement garages for fire protection purposes, considerable discussion developed yesterday evening at the council session.

Alderman Litchfield thought the regulations in this respect should be strengthened.

Alderman Todd remarked that less than one per cent of autos burn up and he vigorously expressed his opposition to the drastic nature of the proposal, claiming that it only added to the cost of residences.

Alderman Brown contended that such proposals made buildings too costly for the prospective home owner.

The mayor observed that provision was only made for fire walls.

"What about the ceiling," he asked.

Alderman Williams was also of the Tribute was paid to Mayor Leeming prior to the commencement of regular council business yesterday evening, when the chief magistrate of the city received the felicitations of the aldermen on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his wedding.

Alderman Adam made a graceful speech as a preliminary to the presentation to His Worship of a magnificent silver basket of red and white roses on behalf of his colleagues.

"We could not let this occasion pass without offering some small token of our esteem and confidence," said Alderman Adam.

"Our relations have always been most cordial and you have always presided over our deliberations with the same pleasant disposition and the same cheery smile."

"We wish to extend to you and Mrs. Leeming the warmest congratulations of the aldermanic board. May you have every prosperity and happiness in the years to come."

The mayor was noticeably affected by the action of his conferees and his voice was husky with emotion as he rose to reply to the eulogistic terms of the aldermanic spokesmen.

"We have always worked harmoniously together in working out our problems," said the mayor.

"I am deeply moved by this expression of goodwill. I thank you most sincerely on behalf of Mrs. Leeming and myself."

RELIEF SURPRISE
As the mayor bent over the beautiful bouquet in his graceful silver container, Alderman Peden rose to make another presentation on behalf of the staff of the city relief department.

"I convey to you the heartfelt congratulations of the staff of the relief department on this the twenty-fifth anniversary of your marriage, and express the hope that Mrs. Leeming and yourself may live to see many more anniversaries," said Alderman Peden.

As he passed along to the mayor a large cardboard box which contained a handsome silver cake basket.

His Worship feelingly expressed his thanks to Alderman Peden and asked him to convey to the members of the department his appreciation and best wishes.

The aldermen rose in a body and sang, "For he's a jolly good fellow and gave three hearty cheers and a 'tiger' for the mayor, and Mrs. Leeming."

Readings

Sets Aside All Areas of Municipality for Various Purposes

Esquimalt's zoning by-law, first considered last year during the regime of Reeve James Elrick went through the closing stages at the council meeting yesterday when it was considered clause by clause and tabled it for final passage at the next meeting two weeks hence.

Only two minor amendments were made in the by-law during the third reading.

The William Fitzherbert Bullen Memorial Park Exchange by-law was also given first, second and third reading and tabled for final passage at the next meeting.

The new zoning by-law places restrictions on building in the district in order to protect residential areas and set aside other localities for commercial sites.

The by-law was originally considered in an effort to keep the residential districts of the municipality free from unsightly shacks and to segregate industrial enterprises in the district from the portions set aside for homes in the future.

Low Cost VACATION

VANCOUVER'S RELIEF COSTS

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 7.—Relief costs in Vancouver for the two weeks ended June 1 amounted to $66,487, against $24,072 for the corresponding period of last year. It was reported to the civic relief committee yesterday afternoon by Col. H. W. Cooper, head of the department.

Of that sum, $51,026 was for unemployment relief, of which the government will pay $35,785. Last year the cost was $11,366 shared by the city and the two governments. Of the total this year, $33,072 was for food, $1,835 for fuel and $4,416 for shelter. Single men relief, for municipal residents, cost $7,562, and women, $2,279. Relief for transients, paid entirely by the governments, cost $5,117.

In computing the number of words in an advertisement, estimate groups of three or less figures as one word. Dollar marks and all abbreviations count as one word.

In estimating the number of lines in an advertisement, count five words for the first line and four words for each line thereafter. This is not an absolute guide to the number of lines depending on the length of the individual words.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered or placed with the Times. Any claim for rebate on account of errors or omissions must be made within thirty days from the date of the same, otherwise the claim will not be allowed.

Advertisers who desire it may have replies addressed to a box at the Times Office and forwarded to them by private address. A charge of 10¢ is made for this service.

Subscribers wishing their addresses changed should notify this office, as well as the carrier. If you fail to do so, you will be charged $1.50 per month, and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

PREMIER TOLMIE

GIVEN DEGREE

Honored Yesterday by College of Puget Sound at Tacoma Ceremony

Premier Tolmie received an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the College of Puget Sound, Tacoma graduation exercises yesterday. The same degree was conferred on Frank Smith Baker, Tacoma newspaper publisher, while an honorary degree of Doctor of Human Letters was given Dr. J. Ralph Magee, Seattle, recently elected Bishop of the Methodist Church of the United States. Fifty students received degrees.

Dr. Tolmie said he considered the honor one conferred as a friendly gesture toward the citizens of British Columbia, and not at all in a personal sense.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Esquimalt council yesterday evening accepted an invitation to visit the exchange of the British Columbia Telephone Company sometime in the near future.

James A. Burman, M.C., and Hesterman, M.H., Aldermen, John Worthington and Alderman W. H. Kinman were appointed by the City Council yesterday evening to represent the city on the board of directors of the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Councillor Thomas Hadfield was named the representative of Esquimalt on the board of directors of the Provincial Jubilee Hospital at the council's meeting yesterday evening. His appointment was moved by Councillor R. A. Anderson and seconded by George Wise.

The Social Service Exchange informed the Esquimalt council that a survey of the work done by Mrs. Cameron Parker in the social service field in Greater Victoria would be mailed to it in the near future. The letter was tabled and decision to consider the report on its arrival was reached.

H. F. Bourne, municipal engineer of Esquimalt, was instructed to make a report on a complaint from H. Paxton to the effect that the sewer at the south end of Crittle was leaking on the beach. A survey of the situation by Mr. Bourne was ordered by the council at its meeting yesterday evening.

Murphy Electric Company and Canadian General Electric Company were yesterday evening awarded by the City Council contracts for electrical supplies approximating $6,000. The first concern will supply globes and equipment and the latter rectifier tubes and other apparatus.

The regular monthly meeting of the Victoria Horticultural Society will be held at the City Hall to-night, commencing at 8 o'clock. Owing to the inability of the scheduled speaker to be present, the president, Dr. A. G. Price, will give a talk on hardy ferns. Anyone interested is cordially invited to be present.

Residents on Wollaston Street, petitioning for the improvement of the road between Lamplugh and Macaulay Streets, will be made as soon as the council has funds available, according to a motion passed at the Esquimalt council meeting yesterday evening.

A request by Mrs. E. Comerford for permission to improve a shack on Comerford Street, was turned down by the Esquimalt council yesterday evening on reception of a report from the medical health officer to the effect that the only improvement possible on the premises was the removal of the structure.

Col. J. S. Dennis, C.M.G., D.S.O., will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the United Service Institution to be held at the clubroom, 1218 Langley Street, to-night at 8.30 o'clock. Col. Dennis will have for his topic "Personal Experiences in Russia, China and Japan, and the Present Situation in Those Countries as Affecting Canada."

In a letter read at the meeting of the Esquimalt council yesterday evening the B.C. Land & Investment Agency informed the municipality the price of property in the district owned by the Puget Sound Agricultural Company had been reduced in an effort to place the land in the hands of residents. The company suggested the council might consider the purchase of a park area at Saxe Point.

Reeve Albert Heald will represent Esquimalt on the council at the meeting of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention on June 27. He was named the district delegate at the municipal council meeting yesterday evening. Councillor George Wise forwarded the suggestion that Esquimalt could not afford to send a delegate this year, but Councillor R. A. Anderson expressed the view that the meeting was of vital importance and the district should be represented. The reeve stated he had no personal wish to attend the sessions but would go if sent by the council.

The recital to be given to-night at the parish church of St. John's will be the first of a series of musical recitals in the city. The cathedral choir and orchestra under the direction of the cathedral organist, Stanley Bulley, will perform the following programme: "Solemn Melody" (Walford Davies), "Christus Factus Est" (Anon.), "O Lord Increase Thy Faith" (Gibbs), "Ave Verum" (Byrd), "Turn Back O Man" (Holst), and Brahms' "Song of Destiny." Mr. Bulley will also play Vierne's "Carrillon" as an organ solo. A collection will be taken for the music fund.

An illustrated lecture on Mount Sinai was given before the Overseas Club yesterday by Capt. W. M. Gibson of the University School. In 1927 Capt. Gibson with a small party journeyed from Alexandria, Egypt, to the Sinai Peninsula to make a study of the course followed by the party in a general way that followed by the Children of Israel and was probably the only attempt to reach the location of the tabernacle. Capt. Gibson was accompanied by the chairman, C. Hartley. The meeting was the last until after the summer months.

Victoria Post No. 1, Native Sons of Canada, are sponsoring a meeting in the committee room of the Chamber of Commerce at 8 o'clock to-night to discuss the formation of an association to promote the sport of fishing in Saanich Arm. The proposed club, which is hoped will be modeled along the lines of the Tyee Club at Campbell River, has the support of several of Brentwood's leading fishermen, who will appear to-night to advance plans. It is felt by the sponsors that such a club would promote interest in deep-sea fishing in Saanich arm and would make the spot additionally attractive to tourists who are also followers of the sport of Isak Walton.

The land settlement scheme in British Columbia is being held up while Ottawa debates the question of assistance in the plan of the select committee of the unemployment relief committee. British Columbia wants the federal authorities to advance funds to put the plan in operation. This calls for small tracts of suitable lands to be placed at the disposal of selected families for the purpose of self-maintenance. During the experimental stage the expense of keeping these families would fall upon their home city. After two years those families making a success of the experiment would be enabled to buy their holdings outright from the provincial government or the municipality, according to ownership.

As a result of injuries he sustained yesterday when he fell from the rafters of the stable at the rear of his premises, 454 Kingston Street, James Birney died at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday evening.

He fell to a concrete runway while tearing down the structure, sustaining a fractured skull. Medical attention by Dr. A. E. McKicking proved of no avail. Mr. Birney, a native of Ireland, was fifty-two years old. He is mourned by the widow and one sister. The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. A. de B. Owen officiating. Interment will be in Ross Bay.

Among the by-laws receiving final passage at yesterday evening's city council was the new by-law which makes inspection of chimney sweeps' equipment compulsory in the case of safety every six months.

The Pride of the Island Lodge No. 31 Sons of England Benevolent Society will give a social and dance at the S.O.E. Hall, Broad Street, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The Daughters of England Lodges and the other Sons' Lodges and families are cordially invited to attend.

Norman Baker, superannuation commissioner, Victoria, has notified the New Westminster city council that the cost of the proposed actuarial investigation into the superannuation fund will be $150 per contributor. The cost of New Westminster will be $231 on this basis. The council has endorsed the proposed investigation.

Members of the Order of Buffaloes will consecrate their new home at the Old Sailors' Institute, Admirals Road, Esquimalt, this evening at 8 o'clock. It will be the new home of the United Service Lodge and all brothers are earnestly requested to attend and see this impressive opening ceremony performed. The pride of Victoria lodge will pay a regalia visit.

PIER ISLAND

PENAL COLONY

Island Near Salt Spring Considered as Prison For Rebellious Doukhobors

Scheme Is Given Endorsement by the Island's Conservative Association

Special to The Times

Fulford, Harbor, June 7.—Pier Island, which lies immediately opposite the south end of Salt Spring Island is being considered as a site of a colony for the detention of Doukhobor Sons of Freedom responsible for the B.C. disobedience campaign. The site is under review as a Federal penal institution.

The proposal was given unqualified endorsement by the Island's Conservative Association at its meeting here on Saturday.

Miller Higgs of Galiano Island, president of the association, tendered his resignation of that office, owing to his pending departure for England. This was heard with regret, and a unanimous proposal was made that he continue in office until date of departure.

Among those attending were W. Miller Higgs, president; H. O. Scott, first vice-president; Major P. C. Turner, second vice-president; Alan Calver, secretary-treasurer. Representatives of the various sections of the constitution were: Sidney P. Butler, W. S. Twiss, A. Burdett, W. C. Clarke, Deep Cove, J. M. Copthorne and A. Calvert; Salt Spring Island, Major P. C. Turner, P. Crofton and V. Case; Morrice Island, H. G. Scott and W. Spencer; Percival; Galiano Island, W. Miller Higgs and O. H. New; Mayne Island, Dr. W. Rose. Others present included W. O. Wallace, president of the Nanaimo Federal Association, and Capt. M. F. Macintosh, M.P.P. for the Islands.

The death occurred yesterday at his residence after a short illness, of Henry John Veale, 3436 Saanich Road. He was born in England, and had resided in Victoria for the last sixteen years. He was a member of the Victoria Club, where he made his first home in Canada. He is survived by one brother, Arthur William, and two sisters, Miss Sophia Florence and Miss Harriet Maud Mary, all of whom live at the home on Saanich Road. Announcement of funeral arrangements will be made later.

Stra vs. Vancouver Asse Company Limited, dismissed, the Chief Justice dissenting.

PERSONAL APPEALS

Seven men convicted under the Criminal Code were before the court under guard of provincial police, to present personal appeals. They were as follows: J. Godbold and L. Simmers of Vancouver, charged with breaking and entering; L. Sheddias of Vancouver, charged with selling a substance representing it to be a drug; N. Elliott, assault; A. D. Henry, incest; A. Gatz, stealing an automobile, and G. E. McArthur, breaking and entering.

THREE CONFIRMED

This morning the court affirmed the sentences on Godbold and Simmers. Mr. Justice McPhillips dissenting, and unanimously confirmed the sentence upon Sheddias. The other four personal appeals are being heard this afternoon.

Godbold and Simmers pleaded that stolen tools found in their garage were not evidence to support conviction upon charges of breaking and entering garages. Simmers also argued that the police had omitted to produce his books, which he claimed would have shown that a stolen car found in his garage, had been regularly received from a named client. No effort had been made by the police to trace the client, he said.

Mr. Justice McPhillips considered this omission in the police proceedings to constitute a miscarriage of justice of the gravest character and would have accorded a new trial.

When dismissing the appeal of Sheddias against a sentence for selling a substance purporting to be a drug, the Chief Justice commented: "It looks very much as though your story was devised to get money from the police." Sheddias had pleaded that the material was not a drug. He declared he had not been aware of it when he took two bottles of material to a Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer, with a story that an acquaintance, whose name he did not know, had supplied the samples as a way to make some money.

The result of such policies of the United States and other countries had been the collapse of the platform on which the world had stood, the drop-ing out of the bottom of commodity values and the general evaporation of credit, Mr. Saunders said.

During her life in Victoria Mrs. Wall has been interested in many organizations and is to-day a charter member of the Queen City Chapter Order of the Betera Star, a charter member of the Nazarine Shrine, No. 1; president and secretary of the Fellowship Club and a charter member of the First Spiritual Church, of which she is now corresponding secretary. In her honor members of the First Spiritual Church will hold a garden party on Thursday afternoon in the garden of her home on Spring Road.

All of the Tines tried the plan. It wasn't long until a man looked up and saw the big long rip. "What's happened here?" he cried.

"Why, look! A rocket's broken through. I'm sorry, 'cause the tent isn't until the rocket fell inside."

Poor Duncy! He was right nearby and all the others heard him cry, "I'm falling! Someone help me, or I'll land upon the ground."

They tried to grab him. 'Twas too late. He toppled through at quite a

Mr. Robertson, familiarly known to his numerous friends as "Rock," is manager of the Dominion Theatre and known to the movie world as a "Go-Getter." This is no idle title for Mr. Robertson is one of only five managers of moving picture houses in Western Canada who belongs to the "Famous Players Go-Getters Club." That means he gets the business for his movie house. As a matter of fact, a "short time ago" Mr. Robertson was awarded the honor for keeping his theatre "most consistently full" of any manager in British Columbia.

Mr. Robertson falls from Motherwell, Scotland, and he came to Victoria in 1913 to take charge of the Dominion Theatre when it was first opened. "And I have been here ever since," says Mr. Robertson.

Besides possessing an almost uncanny knack in the selection of his pictures, Mr. Robertson always shows a desire to aid in local enterprises. He is a member of the Rotary Club, the executive of the Victoria Operatic Society, and the Masonic Order. His birthday is to-day.

More Power For Greek President

Athens, June 7.—Former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos plans to propose an amendment to the constitution of Greece widening the powers of the President, similar to article 48 of the German constitution. It was announced today.

Article 48 of the German constitution gives the President virtual dictatorial powers in an emergency.

Two lots were sold to Mrs. Gladys Caley and William Hicks for $90 apiece by the Esquimalt council at its meeting yesterday evening.

DR. C. B. MESS GIVEN HONOR

Elected Third Vice-president of Northwest Moose at Wenatchee Convention

Dr. Charles B. Mess of Victoria was elected third vice-president of the Northwest Moose Association at the annual convention at Wenatchee, which concluded on Sunday. The office is a step towards the presidency, promotion through the chairs being the practice of the order. George Allan of Victoria was appointed prelate.

DR. C. B. MESS

E. Copeland of Victoria, president, occupied the chair throughout the sessions, being succeeded in office by J. Leakey of Seattle.

The delegation from Victoria included Allan, J. Johnstone, Oswyn J. Boulton and Dr. Mess. The business sessions of the convention opened on Friday morning and concluded on Sunday. The delegates were entertained with enjoyable sightseeing trips and inspected the new Columbia River dam and power project, now under construction.

The convention received a report of the completion of the new $25,000 home at Mooseheart, built for underprivileged boys by the Northwest Association. The delegates were assured that the building had been fully paid for.

CITY WATCHING EVERY DOLLAR

Improvement of Corner at Leighton and Fell Passed
On to Next Council

Authorization was given by the council yesterday evening for repairs and alterations to the Duchess Street Fire Hall.

The tender of $380 submitted by Robert Hetherington, local contractor, was accepted.

The question of rounding off the corner of Leighton and Fell Streets, the council decided, will be left over for next year's council to deal with.

The cost of this work is estimated at $1,000.

Alderman Brown remarked that he had been prepared to fight on this matter, but the manner in which it had been presented had taken the wind out of his sails.

"This work would cost $450 for materials and $550 for labor, and I consider it is unnecessary," he said. "We need to save every dollar we can."

Alderman Hawkins took the stand that the proposed improvement was necessary, particularly in view of the fact that a school was located close by.

When the question was put to the vote it was unanimously decided to leave it over until next year.

JOBLESS ASK MORE RELIEF

Unemployed of Esquimalt Tell
Council Many Going Hungry in District

Presenting the case of the distressed jobless of the district, a party of eight unemployed waited upon the Esquimalt Council yesterday evening and urged it to approach the government for a better system of assistance or relief than the one now in effect. Reeve Albert Heald, speaking for the council, declared everything in its power was being done, but until further relief legislation was passed nothing further could be expected.

The unemployed asked for direct relief for all needy cases where men were not working. The present system of indirect assistance was quite inadequate, they maintained, saying that only five and one-half days work were available to the jobless every seven weeks.

In a resolution to the council, they pointed out that non-property owners had to pay rent. When no money was coming in these rents were not paid. Consequently the taxpayer was unable to meet the municipal levies, owing to the fact that his property was non-revenue producing.

The resolution was presented by James Vail.

PEOPLE HUNGRY

Hans Kroeger, one of the spokesmen for the delegation, asserted there were people in the district who were going hungry. The working men in need in Esquimalt had not been given sufficient relief. On behalf of the men, he demanded a better system of relief.

Mr. Kroeger then levelled a charge of discrimination against the body deploring the fact that men would be given work in the drydock. He himself had not been given a chance to secure employment on the scheme, he claimed.

Reeve Heald refuted charges of discrimination against Mr. Kroeger by stating four times officers had gone to his residence looking for him to fill a vacancy at the work yard. Each time they had been unable to find him.

The reeve sympathized with the complaints of men who thought they were not getting a fair deal, but declared that as far as he had been concerned no discrimination had been shown. It was inevitable that the vast number who were out of work would claim favoritism was being shown the few who were given employment, he noted.

BEYOND THEIR CONTROL

Everyone out of work had a just complaint. But the unemployment situation was world wide. It was not restricted to Esquimalt and the local authorities were in no way responsible, he declared.

Mr. Vail asked the reeve if he thought the relief project in the drydock was adequate to care for the unemployed of the district. Could not the council secure more work from the government? he asked.

Reeve Heald replied he believed Esquimalt to be the only district in British Columbia carrying on government relief work at present.

Mr. Kroeger reminded the council the government was spending considerable money to assist banks in their attempt at business revival. Why could it not set aside more money to help the jobless? he asked. Continuing, he declared the municipality was bankrupt.

Until further relief was received from the government, the district had to move cautiously, since it was operating on borrowed money, Reeve Heald said.

"What are we going to do? Starve?" Mr. Kroeger asked, as he led the delegation from the room.

Salt Spring

Ganges, June 7.—Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers on Friday evening at Ganges House brought to a close their winter and spring activities. Mrs. Mout was hostess and Ray Parson presided. ably assisted by Malcolm Mout, chief ranger. S. Newman spoke on "Manly Strength." Billy Allan referred to the loss the Tuxis had sustained by the departure of L. Nicholls, mentor for the year 1930-31. Norman West, principal of Ganges public school, had filled the vacancy.

Gordon Parsons had been elected to the Royal Parliament, this being the third consecutive time this honor had fallen to the Salt Spring Island group. Twenty-two badges had been secured through the session, including those for public speaking, public entertainment, day school proficiency, team games, and general field athletics.

Ivan Mout, in the report from the Trail Rangers, stated their mentor, S. Wagg, was retiring temporarily. The mentorship of Colin Mout had been successful. Rev. W. Allan, assistant mentor, had led the group in study of the laws, symbols and moieties of Trail Ranger movements.

Forty-five badges had been secured by the group and prizes, offered by an anonymous friend, for boys securing the most badges had been won by Jack Allan, nine badges; Billy Taylor, eight badges, and Malcolm Mout, eight badges.

Regret was expressed by the officers and boys that Rev. Mr. Allan would soon be leaving. Ganges and Fred Young, in the name of the Trail Rangers, presented him with a handsome address book. After games, supper was served, the group tendering hearty votes of thanks to Mrs. Mout.

Mrs. Leon King of Beaver Point returned on Saturday from Vancouver, where she was a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Walter Lockston.

Mrs. Wilkinson returned to Ganges on Saturday after a few days' visit to Vancouver.

Mrs. J. C. Walcott of Maple Bay is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Price, Merivale, for a few days.

Miss Mildred Price of Vancouver is visiting Mrs. K. Frampton at Vesuvius Bay for a week.

Douglas Layton, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Wilson at Barnaby Central Settlement, has returned to Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Rogers of the Granter are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter at the Lady Minto Hospital, Ganges, on June 3.

Mrs. George Atkins left Ganges on Saturday for Kelowna, where she will spend a month as the guest of her son, S. P. Atkins.

Property at St. Mary's Lake, owned by Pascal De Noe Walker of Victoria, has been purchased by Capt. A. D. Gurney of Mayne Island.

Mrs. B. M. Thomson of Winnipeg has returned home after spending a week at Ganges, the guest of Capt. and Mrs. V. C. Best. Her son, H. Thomson accompanied her.

. . . and why!

In every industry there must be a leader, and in tires, the place of leadership belongs to Goodyear.

This is not a claim. It is a public verdict. A survey of tire preferences from coast to coast proved that 49% of Canada's motorists would rather have Goodyears than any other make of tire.

There must be a reason. There is one, and it is this: Every new tire need, occasioned by motor car development, has been anticipated and met by Goodyear to the satisfaction of millions of motorists all over the world.

Constant striving for additional endurance, safety and dollar-value in tires has finally produced the "body-balanced" Goodyear Tire.

Goodyear Supertwist Cords, Goodyear's own method of processing rubber and Goodyear hand-workmanship give you a tire in which tread and carcass are perfectly balanced and become virtually one piece. Inner friction heat is conquered. There can be no weak spots because strains and shocks are borne by the tire as a whole.

Face this summer's driving with tire confidence. See your Goodyear dealer now. You will appreciate his intelligent and friendly service . . . and the safety and economy of Goodyear Tires.
